GERMANY PRESSES U.S.

2-Nation NATO Fleet Possibility

. . . WANTS SETTLEMENT SOON

Washington (AP)—The West German government reportedly is pressing the United States to nail down a NATO nuclear fleet agreement by the end of this year. Germany evidently is prepared to act without participation of other allies.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard told a news conferecne in Berlin that "a beginning has to be made." His words were generally interpreted to mean that if other nations refuse to participate, Germany and the United States might still go ahead.

The nuclear fleet has always been envisioned as a surface force armed with U.S. Polaris missiles and manned by crews from many NATO nations. So a two-nation force would mean a radical switch in United States policy.

U.S. Reluctant

Top officials declined, however, to rule out that possibility though they insisted that no firm decision to that effect has been made. Some informants said the United States might have to go along with a U.S.-German force plan but would be reluctant to do so.

After taking a new look at the situation in the light of Erhard's comments, officials said late Wednesday they regard a two-power force as very unlikely since they are confident that at least some of the smaller NATO countries would be willing to join in.

Erhard is said to have several developments in mind in raising this possibility.

One is that he is moving toward a meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev.

Debate Expected

Erhard also expects increasing international debate over the project which has stirred disruptive controversy within the Atlantic alliance for four years. An expected discussion in the U.N. General Assembly could lead to some general condemnation of the nuclear force.

U.S. officials also think Erhard feels it is important to settle the issue soon to keep it out of partisan politics in West Germany, which will have elections next year.

Wilhelm Grewe, one of West Germany's top diplomats, recently conferred with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and is understood to have stressed that West Germany feels a sense of urgency about the project. He reportedly discussed Erhard's views.

Not Anxious

With the U.S. presidential campaign in its final month, State Department authorities are not anxious to discuss this or any other foreign policy question at the moment.

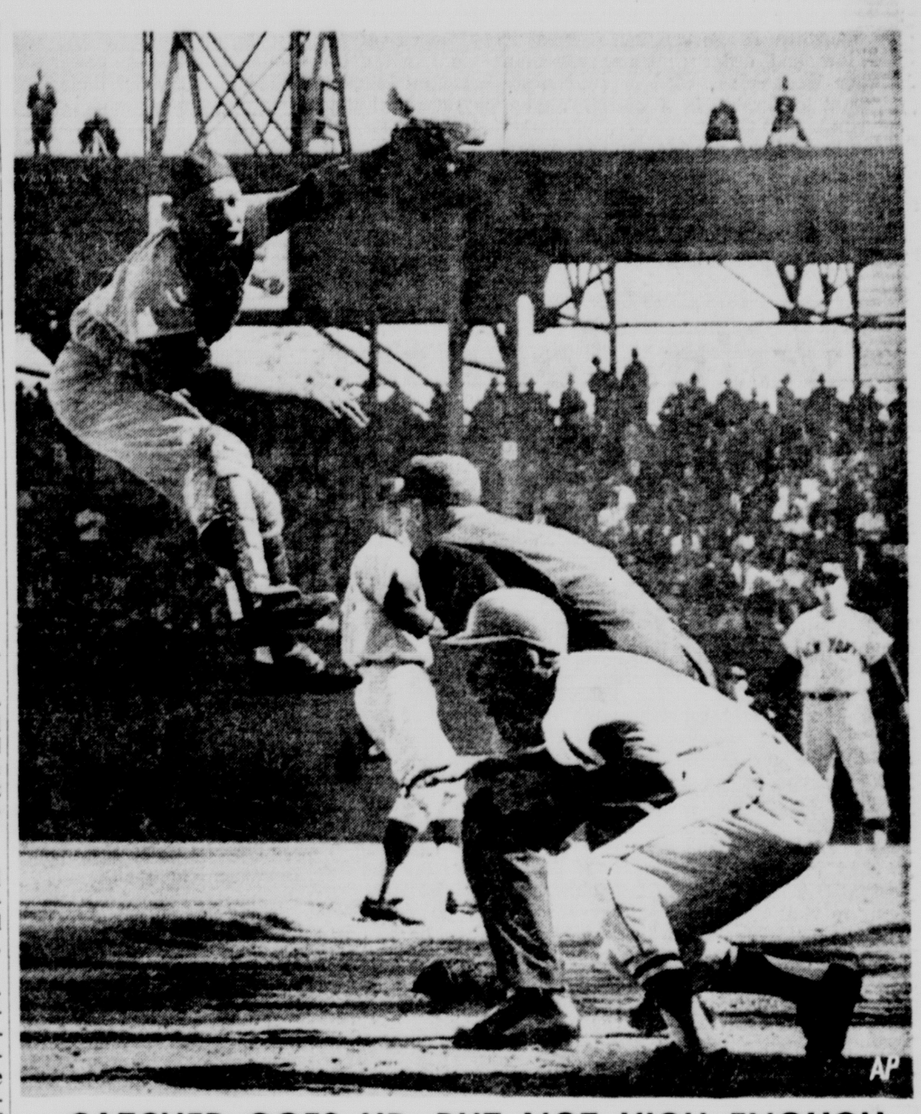

They did point out Wednesday, however, that Erhard and President Johnson agreed months ago to try to get a nuclear force agreement wrapped up by the end of the year.

Greece, Turkey

In addition to the United States and Germany, some officials mentioned Greece and Turkey as urgently interested, also the Netherlands.

At one time both the U.S. and West Germany governments counted on Italian participation too, but recent political instability in Rome has shaken the hope that Italy would join by the end of the year.

And an original U.S. expectation that Britain would join has faded in the face of British objections to the fleet and a pre-election debate over British nuclear policy.

CATCHER GOES UP, BUT NOT HIGH ENOUGH

Yankee catcher Elston Howard leaps high in air in effort to catch ball thrown by Mickey Mantle in the second inning of opening game of the World Series won by the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-5. Mantle in fielding single by Cardinal pitcher Ray Sadecki, fired ball over Howard's head. Mike Shannon scored on the play. Ducking is Curt Flood. Umpire is Frank Secory. In rear are Clete Boyer, left, and Joe Pepitone of the Yankees. (More pictures and stories Page 25.)

State Moves To Utilize EOA

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Frank Morrison announced Wednesday that steps are being taken to coordinate programs under the Economic Opportunity Act —President Johnson's anti-poverty bill— in Nebraska.

Morrison said his special assistant, James Dunlevey, has been working for several weeks studying various aspects of the new act and has participated in several meetings on the subject.

Effective immediately, Dunlevey will be assisted by Jerry Gruber, State Labor Department employe, in developing coordination of programs under EOA, and in preparing Nebraska's application for a federal grant for a Technical Assistance Agency (TAA).

Establishment of such an agency is authorized under Title II of EOA which covers Community Action Programs.

To Coordinate Activities

It will be this agency's responsibility to assist state and local agencies in developing community action programs, and to coordinate the activities and programs of the various agencies involved.

Nebraska is expected to receive a grant of about $25,000 to finance the TAA activities.

Morrison emphasized the agency will not initiate programs — the initiative must come from the communities themselves—but that it will serve as an instrumentality to "tie together" the many aspects of such programs so that each community "will know what resources are available."

Dunlevey said the local programs will be drafted, submitted to the governor's office for review, sent to the federal government, then, if approved, reviewed again by the governor's office. The governor will have veto power over the programs.

The act provides for direct federal grants to communities to finance programs to combat poverty, and requires the most complete utilization of existing programs.

No Actual Dollars

EOA Community Action programs will be financed by 90% federal funds, with the local communities providing the balance. Dunlevey said a community's share could be "in kind" payments providing services, rather than actual dollars.

It is expected Nebraska's federal allocation for community action programs initially will total about $900,000.

Morrison described it as "essential" that complete coordination be achieved between allorganizations, both public and private, engaged in such programs.

"We want to utilize the provisions of the Economic Opportunity Act as completely and efficiently as possible," he said.

The TAA, he said, will be responsible to him and will advise him on the value of programs being undertaken and the "progress being made in improving the living standards of our needy citizens."

The governor noted he has been assured of the "fullest possible cooperation by all agencies of state government." All affected agencies participated in a meeting on the subject last week at Macy sponsored by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, to study means of implementing the EOA to benefit Indian citizens.

He also noted that State Welfare Director John Gage and members of his staff are in Washington receiving additional information on operation of the act.

Provisions

Basic provisions of the EOA include:

Title I: Youth Programs, including Job Corps, Work-training programs, and Work-Study Programs.

Title II: Community Action Programs.

Title III: Programs to combat poverty in rural areas, administered through the Farmers Home Administration.

Title IV: Employment and investment incentives, operated through the Small Business Administration.

Title V: Work Experience Programs which will supplement present programs under the Manpower Development and Training Act, and Vocational Education Act, with local supervision by the Welfare Department which must coordinate Labor and Education.

Title VI: This section pertains to administration of EOA, but also includes the VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) program which is similar in concept to the Peace Corps.

It was noted the University of Nebraska has been suggested as a training site for VISTA volunteers.

LBJ To Request Better Social Security 'Soon'

With Johnson in the Midwest (AP)—President Johnson said Wednesday he is going to ask for improvements to the Social Security law and "maybe sooner than you think."

Johnson said in Peoria, Ill., he considers improvement of the Social Security program a matter of highest priority.

He declared in the Corn Belt earlier in the day that there are those in the land whose policies would wreck and bankrupt the Social Security system and one farmer out of every five.

Johnson hammered away on peace, prosperity and responsibility and on Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, but not by name.

In Des Moines, Iowa, the first stop on Johnson's 11-state campaign trip, Police Chief Vear Douglas estimated a total turnout of 177,000 persons in a city of about 225,000—the biggest crowd, he said, the city has ever seen.

To 45,000 stretched before him on the Iowa Capitol grounds, Johnson quoted from a 1960 Goldwater book—as he did Tuesday night at Raleigh, N.C. He said the opposition proposed prompt final termination of the farm subsidy program but softened this at the National Plowing Contest in North Dakota last month to say, "Nothing would be done to bring disaster suddenly upon you."

'No' To Disaster

"I guess they think disaster is better if it comes by degrees—or in small doses" he said. "Disaster is exactly what their position would bring to our farmers . . . To such a disastrous policy all of America says 'no.'

Johnson proposed a farm program of his own in general terms and in three fields:

—Continuation and improvement of commodity programs to strengthen farm incomes.

—A full partnership for rural Americans in building what he called "the great society."

—Spurring consumer demand for farm products.

Johnson promised to extend the food stamp program and expand the Food for Peace program.

Johnson got another enthusiastic reception in Springfield, Ill., even though it is normally a Republican stronghold.

On the steps of the Courthouse—the old State Capitol where Abraham Lincoln gave his "house divided" speech in 1858—thousands of people spread out across the lawn and into the street in the heart of the city.

Johnson received a heavy hand when he said that peace in the world is the most important thing to every mother, every boy and every citizen and "don't you forget it when you get in the voting booth and vote on Nov. 3. So you go vote for Molly and the baby . . . You vote for peace in the world among all people."

After the speech, the President drove to Oak Ridge Cemetery where he placed a yellow wreath at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

Police Haul Off Near-Riotous Mothers From Queens Sit-In

New York (AP)—Police battled a near-riotous mass of demonstrators Wednesday to arrest dozens of white mothers and break up a three-day sit-in in a newly integrated Queens elementary school.

Some of the women held bawling babes as they were taken away to criminal court.

In the melee outside Public School 149 in Jackson Heights, at least two women fell to the ground. Children wept and screamed and one tot being forced into the school building by his mother wailed:

"I don't want to go."

Forced Transfer

The sit-in began Monday in protest against the forced transfer of white first and second graders away from PS 149 to make way for Negro youngsters from another neighborhood.

Eventually, with 65 white adults under arrest, order was restored by 50 policemen and 15 policewomen. With the mothers into court went more than 60 school children aged 5 and 6, plus a score of younger tots.

Some of the mothers sang "God Bless America" as they were taken to court.

The sit-in and demonstration was sponsored by the Parents and Taxpayers Organization.

Loitering Charges

Most of the adults, including the mothers, were charged with loitering at a school, a form of disorderly conduct, punishable by up to 60 days in jail. They were released without bond for trial next month on the misdemeanor charges.

The New York Board of Education is experimenting with a school pairing plan first devised in Princeton, N.J.

Four nearly all-Negro schools have been paired with four virtually all-white schools. Students are bused or otherwise interchanged between paired schools to bring about greater racial integration

Concept

PAT officials claim they are not opposed to classroom integration as such. However, they maintain the pairing threatens the neighborhood school concept by forcing children to be bused away from schools nearest their homes.

On the opening days of school, Sept. 14-15, PAT staged a citywide anti-busing boycott. It kept 175,000 more children than normal away from classes the first day, and $133,000 the second day.

Opposition eventually narrowed to PS 149, which is paired with PS 92, six blocks away in a Negro section of Corona, Queens.

Sidney Manpower Program Approved

Gov. Frank Morrison disclosed Wednesday that federal approval has been granted to establishment of a Manpower Development and Training Act program at the Sidney Army Ordnance Depot.

Federal funds have not yet been allocated to the project, but Morrison said he was optimistic that they will be.

Jerry Gruber of the State Labor Department said the Sidney project envisions a program for about 225 youths who would be schooled in vocational training such as auto mechanics, auto body work, tractor mechanics, clerical work and food service occupations.

First Under Program

It would be the first residential type school for the state under the MDTA program. It would be jointly administered by the state Labor and Education departments.

Morrison said he has been conferring with State Sens. George Gerdes of Alliance, Elvin Adamson of Newel, and George Fleming of Sidney on implementing the Sidney facility for such purpose.

He described the depot, which is slated to be phased out in 1966 or 1967, as an ideal location for the project.

Plans call for the state to lease the facility from the Department of the Army.

Gruber said it would take approximately $500,000 to finance the MDTA program at Sidney. This would represent the costs of training allowances, instructors and supplies.

Grange Head Wants Taxes Equalized

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Albert J. Ebers of Seward, newly elected master of the State Grange Wednesday came out in favor of an equalized tax base.

"It is high time that every citizen of the state share the tax load and stop looking at special groups to collect revenue," said Ebers.

Ebers dsecribed agriculture as the weak spot in the national economy. He said the farmer and rancher are operating on only about 75% of parity while the rest of the economy has enjoyed increased income.

He added, "If we are ever going to develop the resources of Nebraska everybody is now going to have to pitch in and take serious consideration of the state's tax problems."

In early action on reports of committees Grange members went on record favoring the Rural Electrification Program and its present two per cent interest rate.

The Grange legislative committee received member approval favoring reapportionment of the Legislature on a population and area basis. In addition they favored a constitutional amendment that would allow the states to do their own reapportionment.

Frank Haumont of Broken Bow, Grange member long identified with REA policies, said, "The resolution adopted by the Nebraska Grange favoring the adoption of legislation making high voltage transmission lines in Nebraska common carriers would rank as one of the Grange's most important acts at the present session."

Oppose King-Anderson

Opposition came in early Grange action to urban renewal by the federal government and to what it called socialized medicine as set forth in the King-Anderson bill under which all persons over 65, regardless of need, would be covered.

Grange members favored a resolution encouraging a reduction in the number of government-operated business enterprises, and to continue only those that a bi-partisan congressional committee would determine as absolutely essential.

Agricultural, education and other associated topics will be acted upon Thursday in the final sessions of the State Grange meeting.

Goldwater Pledges He'll Lead War On Crime

Newark, N.J. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater hammered hard for morality in government and law and order in the streets Wednesday, pledging personal leadership in a war on crime.

The Republican presidential candidate stressed these twin themes as he stumped for votes in New Jersey, lashing out also at the growing concentration of power in Washington.

He rapped President Johnson for slogans, saying:

"We have heard of and seen many wars in the time of the present administration. But have we yet heard of the only needed war—the war against crime?

Pledge

"This I can pledge to you—that I will launch the attack."

The Arizona senator said that if elected he would use "our power and influence to see that law enforcement officers, on the state and local level, get back the power they need to carry out their job."

Goldwater made no mention of rioting earlier this year in three New Jersey cities—Jersey City, Paterson and Elizabeth—in his speech prepared for delivery at the West Orange Armory.

He said law enforcement was strictly local and state responsibility, but there were three things he could do as president:

—Appoint judges to the Supreme Court qualified to carry out their judicial duties and to respect the Constitution.

—If the court decisions should remain unaltered, urge amendments to the Constitution.

—Urge Congress to consider changing some of the rules of judicial procedure in the federal courts.

Goldwater swung into his day's dominant theme at a breakfast in Atlantic City, that overflowed a 1,200-seat hotel ballroom:

"This is Bobby Baker Day."

He said it was just a year ago that Baker quit his job as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority.

Goldwater accused Baker of misusing his office to gain riches and said there was "prima facie evidence" of kickbacks from government contracts.

Centralized Power

Scoring centralized power, Goldwater said:

"Centralized government is centralized government. I don't care where it goes on. It can do as much damage to freedom all over this world."

Nikita, Johnson May Visit U.N.

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Premier Khrushchev and President Johnson may appear at the U.N. General Assembly session that starts Nov. 10 — and pull in leaders of other nations official U.N. sources said Wednesday.

The sources told reporters they thought Khrushchev would show up in the new year, perhaps before the assembly's target closing date of Feb. 26.

They said President Johnson had informed Secretary-General U Thant he would be happy to visit the United Nations again "depending on the outcome of certain events in this country"—meaning if he is elected on Nov. 3.

De Gaulle Invited

The informants said Thant invited the two when he visited Moscow last July and Washington last August. He issued a similar invitation to President Charles de Gaulle in Paris before going to Moscow. They had no information on De Gaulle's reply.

If Khrushchev and Johnson come, other heads of government are expected to follow suit. That happened when Khrushchev last attended the assembly for a few weeks in 1960.

The U.N. sources said no dates had been set for visits by either Khrushchev or Johnson. The United States has listed itself as the second speaker in the assembly's opening general policy debate Nov. 11.

Speak As Chief

If Johnson defeats the Republican candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater, he could use the Nov. 11 date, or he could have his secretary of state or U.N. ambassador speak then and come later to speak as a head of state.

Informed Washington sources said Sept. 30 Johnson wanted to meet with Khrushchev fairly soon, probably next year, to explore further steps to lessen East-West tensions, after he had conferred with Western allies.

Sex Rumors In High Levels Heat Up British Campaign

London (AP) — Talk of sex in high places titillated the British election campaign Wednesday. But the man who made an issue of it said later smears should be kept out of politics.

Quintin Hogg, science minister and fire-eater of the Conservative Party, backed off some from his suggestion at Plymouth that some of Labor's leaders were adulterers.

Hogg had snapped back at a heckler who raised the ghost of former War Minister John Profumo's affair with Christine Keeler, which badly damaged Tory fortunes last year. The Profumo thing had been almost totally ignored in the campaign up to now, and the Conservatives wanted to keep it that way.

'Filth'

Hogg told a packed audience Wednesday night in a school in suburban Dulwich what he really meant at Plymouth was: "That kind of filth should be kept out of public affairs."

He did not repeat his suggestion about Labor's high command. It had already brought to public notice rumors that had been swirling beneath the surface calm of the hustings.

Hogg said people in public life, although they should set an example to the nation, "are entitled to draw a veil over their private affairs."

Boos, Cheers

"Let him who is without sin cast the first stone," declared Hogg, and the audience burst forth with a storm of boos and cheers.

He accused pro-Labor newspapers of distorting his remarks into a supposed smear on Labor's high command, which Hogg said he never intended.

But party chief Harold Wilson seemed to take the view that it was a smear.

Wilson demanded that Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home speak out on Hogg's charge. Clearly he wanted Douglas-Home to name names or disown Hogg's suggestion.

"One naturally assumes the leader of Mr. Hogg's party will make a statement," Wilson said. "I think he must. I cannot imagine he would not."

Douglas-Home ignored Wilson's challenge in his public speeches.

Profumo had been dallying with Christine while she was carrying on with a Soviet naval attache, Yevgeny Ivanov. The war minister insisted in the House of Commons that he was innocent of conducting an illicit affair with the girl. But later he confessed that he had been lying and that Christine indeed had been his lover. He resigned from the cabinet of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

LADY BIRD . . . walks under welcoming pennants in Greensboro, N.C.

Mrs. LBJ, Lynda Heckled

Aboard the Lady Bird Special (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon Johnson was heckled severely by Goldwater supporters in Columbia, S.C., Wednesday when she said control of nuclear weapons is the responsibility of the President.

Most of the 10,000 persons near the train station were Johnson fans but those with Goldwater placards raised them and shouted "We want Barry" as Mrs. Johnson spoke.

They even heckled when the President's 20-year-old daughter Lynda spoke and when Gov. Donald Russell of South Carolina admonished them for their rudeness and said all speakers should be given a chance.

Throughout her long day of whistle-stopping, the First Lady had been saying, "There's nothing finer than to be in Carolina." She had used the phrase at several stops in North Carolina before her special train moved into South Carolina.

Want Dixie Vote

The sun was shining, and Mrs. Johnson kept smiling as she moved into her second day of proving she and her husband love Dixieland and want its vote in return.

"With every turn of the wheels" of her gay whistle-stop train, Mrs. Johnson declared, the welcome "gets better, more colorful, more wonderful."

Mrs. Johnson kept at the gentle, soft sell of peace, promoting her husband's record during 14 stops and 14 speeches in North Carolina and South Carolina.

The hard politicking was being done, with obvious zest, by one of her traveling masters of ceremonies, Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, who roused the crowds with attacks on Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

He hit hardest Wednesday, declaring the South wasn't "being fooled" by Goldwater.

Asking which Goldwater, he posed such questions as: do you mean the pro-civil rights on anti-civil rights Goldwater, the drop-the-bomb or don't-drop-the bomb Goldwater, against-civil-rights or for-civil-rights Goldwater?

At an unscheduled stop at High Point, N.C., where several hundred stood with three high school bands, the President's daughter made the greeting. When someone ran after the departing train with a Goldwater sign, she quipped over the train's rear car public address system:

"We're running in the 20th Century, not the 18th. You can't catch us."

Newswoman Doris Fleeson Taken Ill, Leaves 'Special'

Aboard the Lady Bird Special (UPI)—United Features columnist Doris Fleeson became too ill Wednesday to continue on Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's whistle-stop tour of the South. She was flown to Washington.

Miss Fleeson was taken off the Lady Bird Special at Charlotte, N.C., and whisked in an ambulance to the airport.

She was treated aboard the train by Dr. Janet Travell, White House physician. A White House aide said Miss Fleeson has high blood pressure and suffered a muscle spasm.

A veteran newswoman, Miss Fleeson is married to Dan Kimball, a vice president of Aerojet Corp. and a former secretary of the Navy.

Catholic, Orthodox Cocommunion OK

Vatican City (AP)—The Vatican Ecumenical Council reversed church policy and recommended Wednesday, that in some cases Roman Catholic and Orthodox worshipers should receive sacraments in each others' church services.

The council fathers voted overwhelmingly in favor of the move toward an end to the thousand-year separation from the Eastern Orthodox Church.

The reversal of Roman Catholic policy on intercommunion pointed up how much closer the Church of Rome is to the Orthodox Church than to the Protestant Churches of the West.

Sacramental Differences

For though the council has approved a program of common prayer with Catholics and Protestants, it has made clear it is not ready to accept common official worship with Protestants because of basic differences over the sacraments.

The vote on intercommunion with the Orthodox was a high point of a session that saw a new schema on the role of the laity in the church come under lashing attack from North American bishops.

The schema, which attempts to spell out a wider role for the non-ordained men and women of the Catholic Church, was denounced as badly worded, impractical, out of tune with the times and patronizing.

Will Fight

A council expert told newsmen that the majority of the 244 U.S. bishops appeared to be opposed to the schema as now written and would fight to have it redone from top to bottom.

It appeared to be another issue that would split progressives and conservatives in the debates ahead.

The vote on intercommunion of Orthodox and Catholics came as the council accepted the provisions of the third chapter of the Christian unity schema.

The provisions deal with specific questions of Catholic relations with Orthodox and other non-Catholic churches. All were accepted by more than the required two-thirds.

Points Of Unity

Though not including the Protestant and Anglican Churches in this change, the council stated in the schema that there were other deep common points of unity—belief in Christ, respect for holy scripture and baptism.

But the schema points out that on the essential sacrament of the eucharist, the differences are too great for intercommunion.

The essential difference is that in Catholic belief the bread and wine of the eucharist sacrament actually become the body and blood of Christ, while Protestant belief rejects that.

Reds Down 3 U.S. Craft; 6 Said Dead

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Communist Viet Cong gunners shot down three U.S. Army aircraft Wednesday and all the six men aboard one — a helicopter felled in flames — are presumed to have perished. The crewmen of the others survived.

A strong Red band operating only 13 miles west of Saigon knocked out two of a fleet of helicopters attacking it with rockets and machine guns in support of a drive by Vietnamese ground troops that developed heavy casualties.

One of the helicopters, carrying five Americans and a Vietnamese observer, fell burning in the midst of the band.

Troops who later fought their way to the wreckage found three bodies charred beyond recognition. They considered that the other three also were dead, though there was some possibility they had been taken away by the Viet Cong as prisoners.

3 Officers, 2 Enlisted

The U.S. crewmen were three officers and two enlisted men. Confirmation of the loss of all would increase to 200 the roll of American combat deaths in Viet Nam since 1961.

The second helicopter was shot down near the communist lines, but its crewmen lived through the landing. They were reported to have made repairs to get it back in flying condition.

Lost 55 miles farther west was a U.S. Army Mohawk, a twin-engine plane used for both scouting and combat. Ground fire crippled it, and the American pilot and the Vietnamese copilot took to their parachutes. A helicopter rescued them.

The major political development was the departure of Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem on a diplomatic trip that is expected to keep him abroad at least three months. His wife went with him. She was in tears as they took off from Saigon.

'Wheat Program Short Of Grange Objectives'

Harry Graham, national Grange legislative representative, speaking at the annual Nebraska Grange banquet Wednesday evening described Grange policy "As a program where the Grange seeks to derive the major share of American farm income from the sale of American farm commodities on the primary American market."

Speaking about wheat prices Graham, said, "We believe, for example, that the wheat that is consumed on the domestic market for food represents our primary market, and that the return should be from the user of the commodity as distinguished from the taxpayer.

"To obtain this objective, wheat should bring a return of 100% parity, or about $2.60 per bushel, for that amount going into bread grain and human food."

While some deal of favor was credited to the present wheat program, Graham, said, "The primary certificate and price level of the wheat program is far short of Grange objectives, largely because of the vigorous opposition of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which consistently advocates maintaining the old across-the-board price-support loan and purchase program.

"The only thing really wrong with the wheat program is that domestic certificates do not reflect 100% of parity, which would return farmers another $300 million a year," said Graham.

Kimball—Congressional candidate William E. Colwell said his opponent is trying to cover up his own inadequate record by failing to correctly state Colwell's stand on issues.

Colwell spoke at a public meeting sponsored by the Kimball chapter of the American Association of University Women.

Colwell said Rep. David Martin told an Aurora audience Monday night that he had not taken any stand on medical care for the aged.

"The fact of the matter is that I stated my stand for the Kerr-Mills program and again for the medicare program in a public speech at Alliance Sunday.

"It was fully reported by the news media and recorded for later broadcast. Martin was scheduled to appear on the program but failed to keep his appointment," Colwell said.

Even though Martin is a member of the Education Committee of the House he has failed according to his own campaign material to make one single contribution to education, Colwell said.

LBJ Handling Of Castro Criticized By Sen. Hruska

Gothenburg (AP)—Sen. Roman L. Hruska said Wednesday "the Johnson administration, by its inaction and lack of planning, has given Fidel Castro a virtual license to export Communist subversion throughout Latin America."

The statement was contained in a speech delivered to a Dawson County Republican luncheon in Gothenburg.

Hruska said the administration's chief foreign policy spokesman in the Senate, J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., "insists that Castro is merely a nuisance, not a menace, and that some means must be found to get along with him and Communists all over the world."

The fact is, Hruska said, that "the continuing existence of Communist Cuba under Castro's control poses a deadly threat to the security of this hemisphere."

Group 6 Bankers Elect G. B. Acker

Alliance (AP) — George B. Acker of Scottsbluff National Bank was elected president of Group 6 of the Nebraska Bankers Association.

He succeeds Don Lichty of Alliance Guardian State Bank.

The elections came at an association meeting at Alliance attended by 328 bank representatives from throughout western Nebraska.

Others elected included E. K. Yanney of Lodgepole, vice president; and Joe Huckfeldt of Gering, secretary-treasurer.

Next year's meeting was set for Scottsbluff.

The group discussed branch banking during a business session. After the various groups meet, they will be polled on their feeling on asking the state legislature to change present law to permit the establishment of branch banks.

Gresham Man Is Killed, Wife Injured In Crash

Seward (AP)—A Gresham man was killed and his wife seriously injured Tuesday night in a one car accident about 10 miles west and nine miles north of Seward.

Seward County Attorney Robert Cattle Jr., identified the victim as Anton Vavra, 60. He said Vavra's wife, Christine, 62, was in serious but not critical condition in Seward County Memorial Hospital.

Cattle said the Vavra car went out of control and struck a power pole on a county road.

The death raised the 1964 Nebraska traffic death toll to 321 compared to 263 on this date on year ago.

Son Tags Barry With New Label

Omaha (AP)—Mike Goldwater has hung a new label on his father, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee

During a visit to Omaha, young Goldwater said he regards his father as the "optimistic underdog" in the race.

Goldwater said young people are interested in getting their "mental teeth" into the contrasting philosophies involved in the campaign.

"This is very important," he said. "Youth should know what's going on in our country."

The 24-year-old son of the Arizona senator said the campaign is "going well" and polls which show the senator trailing are not discouraging to the family.

Callan Welcomes Rep. Beermann's Return To State

Fairbury (UPI) —Democratic congressional candidate Clair Callan of Odell said here he is pleased his Republican opponent, Rep. Ralph Beermann, has returned to Nebraska following adjournment of Congress.

Addressing a campaign dinner, he said, "I look forward to the remaining four weeks of the campaign in the hope that my opponent will face the issues of the campaign and the problems of the first district.

"I eagerly await any constructive proposal that he might have to offer in the critical areas of agriculture, education, resource development and job opportunities.

"Such a constructive approach would be a welcome relief from his record of negativism without offering an alternative."

Dentists Plan Fluoride Meet

Norfolk (AP)—The Northeast Nebraska Dental Association has elected Dr. W. V. Sintex of Norfolk president and Dr. William Murphy of Neligh president elect.

Dr. L. J. Peebles of Randolph was named secretary-treasurer.

More than 75 northeast Nebraska dentists attended the group's annual convention here.

Plans for a meeting of representatives of northeast Nebraska towns to discuss adding fluoride to municipal water supplies were completed. The discussion will be at a Norfolk meeting Oct. 30.

Cheese Factory Due For Chappell

Chappell (UPI—It was announced that a new cheese factory will be under construction here soon.

According to Warren Oswald, a spokesman for the firm, equipment began arriving this week and the factory may begin production by January or February.

Milk to supply the raw materials will be purchased from producers in a 60-mile radius of Chappell.

Oswald said Cudahy Packing Co. has said it would purchase all the cheese the company is able to produce.

Top Benefits Still Await South Dakota

. . . Says Gubbrud

Pierre, S.D. (AP)—South Dakota has yet to realize the fullest benefits available to the state under the Missouri River development program, Gov. Archie Gubbrud said Wednesday.

Addressing the Missouri Basin Inter-Agency Committee (MBIAC), Gubbrud said South Dakota's main benefits will come through irrigation.

"Not until a program is completed which will put water on our land by means of irrigation will we begin to regain the sacrifices which have been made," Gubbrud said.

The governor said the state has benefited much through electric power, flood control and recreation by construction of the main stream dams on the Missouri River, but at the same time the state has lost thousands of acres of its most productive agricultural and grazing lands.

In a report on the feasibility of the Oahe irrigation unit, Harold Aldrich of Billings, Mont., said the Bureau of Reclamation is preparing a report which will show that the Oahe unit is a good investment for the federal government and will be of tremendous economic benefit to the area.

Aldrich, regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation, said an exact timetable for progress on the Oahe unit is not available because much work remains to be done.

The Oahe unit would involve irrigation of some 495,000 acres in central South Dakota.

Norfolk's Water Rates Are Due For Re-Evaluation

Norfolk (UPI) — Mayor Ed Vrzal announced at a meeting of the Norfolk City Council that city officials have informally agreed to re-evaluate water rates at the end of the year.

The council last January boosted water rates considerably to launch a long-term water department expansion program involving a new aeration plant and new water wells.

Since that time residents have found their water bills doubling and sometimes tripling as compared to former charges. Several business users of large amounts of water for air conditioning have sunk private wells to cut expense and residents this summer curtailed lawn watering considerably.

As a result, complaints to councilmen have been heavy.

Water commissioner, R. D. Carrick reported that as a result of the higher rates water usage has been cut about in half, while revenue has remained about the same as before.

Mayor Vrzal reported that several test wells sunk in recent weeks to find an additional water source have been dry holes. Location of new wells will determine location of the new aeration plant.

New Board Planned

Omaha (AP) — A three-member police advisory board to evaluate citizens' complaints of a major nature, accidents involving police vehicles and internal affairs of the department will be created, Police Chief L. K. Smith said.

North Platte Junior College Wins Approval In Third Vote

. . . Wahoo Issue OKd; Grant Loses

By The Associated Press

Voters at North Platte and Wahoo approved school bond issues but a bond proposal at Grant was turned down.

The unofficial vote at North Platte was 3,617 for and 1,723 against, or a 67.73% majority, on a $197,000 issue to remodel and equip the former U. S. Post Office and Federal Building for a junior college. The vote was the third on the proposal. It was defeated twice in 1962.

North Platte officials, say the junior college there will open next September. The old federal building was a gift to the school district from the federal government.

5th Junior College

The college's academic program is expected to be much like those at the state's other public junior colleges at Fairbury, Norfolk, McCook and Scottsbluff.

The school's first class will accommodate only freshmen and should number near 100, a spokesman said. An adult education program will be tied into the college, it was stated.

Wahoo School Superintendent C. H. Bones said a $225,000 bond issue was approved for construction of an addition to Westward school there. He said an unofficial count was 54' for and 351 against, or well over the necessary 55% for passage. Earlier this year a similar proposal failed by a narrow margin.

By an unofficial vote of 330 and 348 against, voters turned down a proposed $488,000 bond issue to finance an addition to the Perkins County High School at Grant. A 55% majority was needed for passage.

Something To Think About

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Those who like can accuse the Nebraska Grange of politics but this does not destroy the position they take. As an aside, it is alarming to note the extent to which the cry of politics or politician is used by people attacking something or someone with whom they disagree. Some people seem to have the mistaken notion that if anything is at all political, it is in error and this is about the worst kind of hasty generalization that can be committed.

It might be reasoned, since the Grange spoke of farm programs and farm problems in principles that are more akin to the Democratic than the Republican party, that the organization is partisan and, therefore, not to be taken seriously. If people want to bury their heads in the sand in this manner, they are free to do so but they are doing themselves and their country no service. What they had better do is look at what the Grange and its people say and try to see if there is not some truth in it, aside from the matter of which candidate for office the Grange position might favor.

Taking A Clear Look

The Grange is not a political organization. It is an organization of farmers and it will be found in whatever political camp, Republican or Democratic, it thinks will best serve the interests of agriculture. And it could hardly have any position at all without being nearer in principle to one party or the other.

In its annual convention in Lincoln, the Grange has sought through remarks by some of its officers to impress upon the public the idea that existing relationships between the government and agriculture are not the evils that some people try to make them out to be. It is on this point that the national campaign is being waged on the subject of agriculture.

The return to a "free market" economy would result in a decline of farm income in the United States alone of about 40 percent, or a net income level of about $7 billion from our present $12 billion level, said Harry Graham, National Grange legislative representative of Washington, D.C. And he added that "this, in turn, would cause serious disturbances in our national economy. It would create grave problems in international relations and international trade. It would seriously challenge the U.S. dollar and play havoc with our balance-of-payments problem."

It is important that farmers themselves as well as the general public understand the significance of what Mr. Graham has said. The vital thing in his remarks is the clear warning he sounds of the relationship between farming and the rest of the nation and the impact of a free market situation on the nation. Most people probably realize that a return to a free market in agriculture would mean the ruination of many farmers. But they have the mistaken idea in many cases that this is something that will have no effect upon them. Further, the average farmer believes that he will not be among those who would go broke. Obviously, some of the farmers who think this way would be proven wrong.

As to the rest of the people, they would quickly feel the results of disaster on the farms. Billions of dollars in farm income would drop out of the economy, repercussions in foreign trade would be alarming and rural but non-farm communities would face disaster all across the nation.

There is not one single part or element of our economy that is not dependent on other parts. No business or industry or profession can prosper unless there is prosperity in all of them and agriculture is one of the biggest single parts of that endless circle of exchange.

Also ignored by the great majority of people when they think of government farm programs is the fact that there really is no such thing as a completely free market in any business or industry. There are laws that regulate marketing in every single business and industry of the nation. There are laws even regulating working men and women, through the unions of which they are members. There are laws regulating communications and transportation, banking, insurance and just about everything you can think of. Why are we so prone to look with shame, disgust or dislike upon federal action that tries to protect agricultural marketing?

Regulation On All Sides

One of the reasons is that agriculture has never had the highly polished political muscle that the rest of business and industry has cultivated. It has engaged in no Madison Avenue snow job to condition the public to a farm program, thereby developing a guilt complex even among some of its own members. Perhaps there is an overall majority that wants no farm program but one cannot help but wonder if the consequences of such action would be fully appreciated in advance.

"Well, Dick, If You Didn't Suggest It, Who Did?"

ETV Doing Its Job

Tuesday morning's paper carried two stories on different facets of the same subject. One was the story of novel and interesting methods used by one of the television teachers in teaching fifth grade arithmetic, and the other concerned the request of the state's educational television network for $2.19 million to complete the network facilities.

The staff member who attended the classroom demonstration came away really pleased with the obvious good response of the children and excited by the kinds of possibilities opened up by the TV teacher who had taken a new look at how to help her pupils to learn.

Also noted was a good deal of discussion, by teachers at the school, indicating their real interest in in-service training sessions conducted over ETV to help teachers to do a better job. The school involved was one that receives a few educational TV broadcasts on a commercial station now but that cannot receive the present broadcasts by ETV stations. It seems the teachers are so interested in learning how the television instructors suggest handling their job that they cluster around a television set in the hopes of picking up at least the sound, even though they can't get the visual part of the program.

Nothing that is feasible that can help teachers do a better job, and nothing that can make the teachers more interested in doing a better job, ought to be overlooked these days. Obviously educational television does both. Which means that the sooner we can provide ETV for the entire state, the better off we'll be.

Case Of Huntington Hartford

All will admit that Huntington Hartford, the heir of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, had a provocative idea when he purchased Pig Island, one of the Bahama group, from Dr. Axel Wenner Gren, Swedish industrialist in 1959.

He paid $13.5 million, renamed the place Paradise Island, and then set forth to make of it a top flight recreation resort. He built a posh 52 room motel, an excellent 18 hole golf course, a large swimming pool, some limousines, luxury boats and a tennis court. More than that he acquired a square block of docking space at Nassau to accommodate his guests. He even provided for daytime trade by building another nine hole course. That one was for the low grade millionaires.

And then he was in business, or he was after he hired Gary Player as his golf professional and Pancho Gonzales to preside over the tennis courts.

Then arithmetic caught up with him. Everyone seemed to like his layout and kept his 52 room motel fully occupied, but you just can't charge 52 guests enough to pay the overhead of such a layout. Mr. Huntington Hartford's large and recharging bankroll began to feel like it was in a perpetual hurricane.

Now he has done the sensible thing. He has offered the whole thing for sale. He would like to retrieve $32.5 million. So far—no takers.

We realize that Paradise Island is a long way from Nebraska and Mr. Huntington Hartford does not reside in the Middle West. But his case is similar to that of agriculture which has done a fine job of producing efficiently, but is being afflicted by inadequate prices. The only difference is that Mr. Hartford can afford the bad arithmetic while the average farmer cannot.

A Little On Birds

We thought radar was the exclusive province of the weather people and of those trusted men who constantly scan the sky for signs of an approaching enemy.

But the wildlife people have moved in. During this fine fall weather there is not much work for the storm watchers and no enemy is flexing his muscles so there is empty time on the radar screens. Because of this, Frank Bellrose, better described as a figure in the Illinois Natural History Survey, has temporarily appropriated one of the better radar screens at Des Moines, Ia. and is spying on birds.

He finds that in their migrant moods they engage in dark practices. Mainly they fly at night. The robins you see in your yard this morning probably spent late yesterday grubbing worms in South Dakota. Tomorrow they will be carrying on at Wichita, Kansas. They don't take wing and fly to where they are going in one great lick.

Bigger birds, like geese, fly in tight groups. Small birds group up too, but not in tight formation. Geese tend to fly by families and relationships. The one who has made the most flights is the leader, and the younger ones learn the way by following.

Mr. Bellrose has found that while there is a good deal of instinct in bird migrations, a great deal of navigation is learned the hard way. That's one reason why they prefer night flying. There are more stars to go by than just one sun, which might be obscured by a cloud. And there are ground landmarks too.

If you happen to be flying an airplane watch out for eagles, big hawks and vultures. They don't mind a collision now and then. They are always on the prowl for something to eat and one can imagine how a large airplane appeals to them—a lifetime's supply of food.

Birds won't fly into headwinds but they can make precise corrections for side winds and they know more about wind shear than men.

Is FBI Guilty Of Foot Dragging?

WASHINGTON — The alarming rash of bombings in Mississippi—sixteen during the summer in McComb, fourteen churches in the state, and this week the blowing up of the COFO freedom house at Vicksburg—points to something being wrong inside the FBI.

On top of this has been the strange leak of J. Edgar Hoover's testimony before the Warren Commission and his attempt to put the blame for Lee Oswald's presence in Dallas on the State Department, rather than with the FBI, where the Warren Commission put it.

No congressional committee ever has the guts to investigate the FBI. Too many congressmen have skeletons in their closets. However, here are some facts which this column can report regarding the question of bombings in Mississippi and elsewhere.

In 1958, shortly after the dynamiting of the Clinton, Tenn., school house, this writer organized a "Committee Against Bombs of Bigotry," which tried to mobilize public opinion and spur legislation to prevent these outrages.

The late John F. Kennedy was a member of this committee, together with the late Sen. Estes Kefauver; Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, now secretary of Commerce; Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota, now secretary of Agriculture Gov. Pat Brown of California; Charles Taft of Cincinnati, and various others.

Their efforts helped to rebuild the Clinton High School, for which the Eisenhower administration had vetoed funds, and also helped initiate a congressional move to tighten the law regarding bombing.

The late John F. Kennedy, then a senator, deserves chief credit for pushing the anti-bombing bill through congress as part of the 1960 Civil Rights act. It makes bombing a federal offense, imposes heavy penalties where the explosives are transported interstate, and presumes that interstate transportation must be the fact.

This law has been on the statute books for four years with ample time for the FBI to read it.

Having watched the FBI work over a long period of time I can attest to its efficiency. Its agents are dedicated, determined, and can do a terrific job when they get the proper instructions.

The FBI has been especially adept at planting agents inside the communist party and other subversive organizations. Its plant inside one spy network caught alleged spy Alexander Sokolov and his wife. And apparently the reason the espionage charges against them were suddenly dropped was because of the danger of revealing the FBI's secret plant.

However, similar undercover work inside the Ku Klux Klan and southern subversive groups has been lamentably missing. It is not hard to get an agent inside the Klan. I used to have one. Furthermore, the Klan, like the communist party, is on the Justice Department's subversive list—even if the Republican party at San Francisco did refuse to condemn the Klan.

Since three Mississippi women, whose homes were bombed, came up to Washington to see President Johnson, the FBI has been more active. If the series of arrests in McComb this past week had been made earlier, some of the bombings and other violence might have been prevented. But there is something wrong with the fact that this efficient agency let sixteen bombings go by in McComb, Miss., alone before moving in to real action.

Don't Scream, Just Biff The Kid One

NEW YORK — A social worker, specializing in mother-child relationships, called on 40 of the former and asked them if they raised their voices in front of the latter. Well, that's putting it genteely. Specifically she wanted to know: "Do you scream at your children?"

She discovered that, of the 40, thirty-six were "screamers." Only four were not.

The social worker concluded, with all precincts—poor and middle-class and wealthy — reporting, that screaming is "normal."

"Unhealthy," but "normal."

She said her findings in the New York City survey bore out previous observations she'd made while working in child guidance centers. Its a noisy world, and no small part of the decibel count can be attributed directly to frustrated, angry momism.

I am not an advocate of sweet permissiveness, but must say that habitual yelling, on the part of mature females, seems the height of absurdity.

An order to get down off the chandelier, done in an undertone, will make an undertone-accustomed kid comply with more amenity, because his nerves have not been jangled in the process. Children are human, even when they are loping across coffee tables, and they mature much faster, and infinitely more agreeably, when they are treated as such.

Of course, there might be a good excuse for child-screaming if the mother were in such a state of tension that barking out orders gave her a sense of release. But the social worker's survey showed that none of the thunderous thirty-six found happiness in their vocal explosions.

Fifty per cent of them said that, after they'd screamed at the kids, they felt no better and no worse. The other half felt bad after they'd screamed: Guilty, upset, tense. And 75 per cent of the screamers wished they could get over the yelling habit, but didn't see how it was possible to bring up children without screaming at them.

The social worker concluded, from this attitude, that sweet reason in our maternal society has all but been forgotten—because the "normal" population finds the strain of parenthood "overwhelming."

The survey also showed that screaming mothers also tend to use more punitive methods of punishment than non-screamers. Spanking has made a decided comeback in our culture, apparently.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: Should sulfa drugs be given without allergy tests? If so, for how long? What are the symptoms of sulfa poisoning?—I.P.

Molner

Dear Doctor: I have read so much about allergy to penicillin. My husband and I cannot agree whether to let the doctor administer penicillin to our three-year-old daughter who already has had her first and only shots of it within the last six months, both times for an ear infection.

In both cases she showed marked improvement. Does this indicate that her body used up the drug in its entirety, so she will run no risk of its building up and causing a serious reaction? Is there some drug other than penicillin?—MRS. E. A. H.

Let's answer these letters separately, since the two drugs are quite different. First:

SULFA: Reactions to this drug are usually in the form of a rash, nausea, headache, and disturbance in the white blood cell count.

Newer forms of sulfa are less likely to cause reactions of a rash, nausea, headache, and disturbance in the white blood cell count.

Newer forms of sulfa are less likely to cause reactions than some of the early ones.

I am not familiar with allergy tests or other methods of determining in advance whether a reaction is likely to occur. However, I don't see any great need for them.

If such a reaction occurs, and the symptoms cease promptly when the drug is discontinued, that is good reason to avoid giving it again.

PENICILLIN: This is a different drug, and reactions can be much more serious than with sulfa.

Hives, rashes and other allergic responses may occur very quickly after an injection, or may be delayed as much as 10 days. Such results, while annoying, are not dangerous. Rather, the danger lies in cases in which the allergic response includes swelling of tissues of the respiratory system, interfering with breathing, or other such serious consequences.

It is not a problem, as Mrs. E.A.H. suggests, of the drug "building up," but rather of a person becoming more sensitive, allergically, to a substance the more often he is exposed to it.

Some people become readily sensitive to penicillin; others never do. Sensitivity, like hay fever or any other allergy in that respect, depends on the individual.

Millions of people have had penicillin without undesirable consequences. But with the drug so widely used, and sometimes promiscuously, quite a few HAVE turned out to be allergic to it.

I don't want to say anything to encourage needless fear of penicillin. (Mrs. E. A.H. may well be worrying without any real cause.)

If there is any sign of reaction to penicillin, then sensitivity or "skin" tests should be performed to make sure. It can't be predicted in advance who will be sensitive, but I advise caution with any individual who is known to have other sensitivities.

If allergy to penicillin exists, then it is possible to resort to quite a few other antibiotics. Your doctor will choose one which fits the type of germ being combatted.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a ganglion and is it serious? —C. R. H.

It is a growth on a tendon. Sometimes it causes no trouble. It can be removed surgically. It's not serious, as a rule.

☆ ☆ ☆

Note to Mrs. H.A.P.: There's no reason why parsley or sassafras tea would be beneficial to the kidneys.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the old sulfur and molasses treatment good for pimples? Is there a difference between sulfur and sulfa drugs?—MRS. R.D.

First: No, that old mixture isn't used any more.

Second: Sulfur is a chemical element, as oxygen, iron, chlorine, sodium and a hundred-odd others are basic elements.

The sulfa drugs are members of a group of complicated compounds called sulfonamides. The fact that they contain sulfur among other elements accounts for the name.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have angina pectoris and take nitroglycerin tablets for the pain. We are planning a mountain trip. Will high altitude affect my condition? —MRS. S.S.

I wouldn't expect the altitude to bother you at all while you are traveling—that is, riding. But it can cause shortness of breath, until you are acclimated to it, while you are exerting yourself physically. You can avoid pain by moving slowly until you adjust. Recently the American Medical Association reported that a statistical study shows heart disease to be no more prevalent in the high-altitude states than elsewhere.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there some lack of vitamins or other reason why a person bruises easily? I have many bruises on my thighs at all times. I barely bump a table and I have a bruise.—MRS. B.C.H.

There can be various causes of easy bruising and lack of enough vitamin C (from citrus or tomato juices, or the fruit itself) is one of them. Lack of calcium is another—a reason why older people should drink milk. There can also be defects in the clotting mechanism of the blood. Special tests are needed to determine this.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetious matter will be edited out of letters. Teenage Drinking

Crete, Neb.

For quite a few years now, I have read the court proceedings in many papers and hardly ever have I noticed a teenage girl's name being placed there on the charge of "a minor in possession." I don't know if the names are published or if the police are just letting these girls off. I know for a fact that in most cases (if a girl is with a boy when picked up), the police give the ticket only to the boy. This is not fair, although it may seem good to the boy and girl at the time to receive only one ticket. The majority of the time the girl has had just as much to drink as the boy, if not more.

When are the police and parents going to wake up to the fact that in all cases it is not the boy alone who wants to go drink beer? Some of these high-class girls aren't the angels they pretend to be.

WONDERING

Editor's Note: The press does not and Lincoln police maintain that they do not make any distinction as between boys and girls in the matter of filing charges against minors for possession of liquor. Lincoln police report that there are simply many more cases involving boys than girls, just as there are more men than women involved in drunken driving cases.

The Benefits

Black ink is preferable to red ink in ledgers of both public and private enterprises. In fact, it's essential to the successful operation of the latter. However, there's another point to be considered when public facilities like the Pershing Municipal Auditorium is concerned. It's the fact that full value to the community cannot be measured by the figures in the ledger.

All of the monetary benefits to the community are not shown on the operating statement. These include the money spent in stores and hotels and other establishments by those who came to Lincoln for conventions and other meetings. This income strengthens the general economy of the city in which everybody has a vital stake.

However, the Pershing Municipal Auditorium, like the public library, the city's parks and playgrounds and other recreational facilities, has an intangible (value beyond) measurement in dollars and cents. The auditorium serves as an important source of cultural enrichment, pleasure and public convenience. And out of the discussions and programs of the many gatherings at the auditorium come new thoughts and recommendations for resolving important issues and for solving problems confronting this community, the state and society as a whole.

Sound fiscal management of the auditorium is essential to the facility's successful operation. But it also needs to be recognized that even if the auditorium fails to break even during any future fiscal year, it doesn't mean the operation hasn't been successful in the term of its value to the community.

Test Ban Treaty

Lincoln, Neb.

One year ago on October 10, the nuclear test ban treaty took effect. This was a heartening event. It brought together military powers who deeply distrust each other, yet who found one means of cooperating in attempting to achieve the common objective of survival. In our country, the work leading up to it was done under Republican and Democratic administrations. It was overwhelmingly and bipartisanly supported by Congress.

The foundation of the treaty is many years of research and development by engineers, scientists and diplomats. Perhaps eventually such agreements might also have a foundation of mutual trust and understanding. As of now, this treaty represents the most realistic reason we have for optimism on the question of survival.

Loss Of Status

Lincoln, Neb.

The Democrats have been trying to make a lot of hay out of the decision of the Republican leadership not to compromise its principles to please some of the more liberal members of the GOP. Unable to hold back their hypocrisy any longer, the Democrats let it burst out like gas from a punctured balloon with the recent pronouncement in Congress that all members of their party in Congress who may be found guilty of conduct unbecoming a liberal shall be subject to loss of status on congressional committees.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Report Shows Decrease In Deaths From Heart Disease

By ROBERT PETERSON

We're accustomed to reading and hearing that the incidence of death from heart disease — America's No. 1 killer — is constantly advancing. But a current bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company reports that, contrary to popular impression, death rates from heart disease have decreased slightly during the past decade —for both men and women.

The report discloses that during the period 1950-53, there were 312.2 deaths per 100,000 from heart disease, whereas during the years 1960-63, the death rate was only 303. The report states:

"Recent trends indicate that the mortality from heart disease, particularly before midlife, is being brought under some measure of control . . . further gains may be expected from the extensive research being conducted on the causes of the disease and on improved methods of treating it . . . even in the present state of knowledge, it is possible to reduce the toll from heart disease by preventive measures, such as weight control and good health habits, and by early detection and treatment of the disease."

Various readers have asked who created the nation's first major housing colony for older people. This distinction seems to belong to Frank E. Mackle Jr., 48, head of Mackle Brothers of Miami, Fla.

Ten years ago, in 1954, Frank and his three brothers began construction of Pompano Beach Highlands (Fla.) — a colony of 2,500 homes specifically designed for retired men and women.

The announcement they prepared describing that colony is recognized in the ad world as the first advertisement in a national magazine publicizing a new, planned community for retired people. The ad, incidentally, drew 17,000 inquiries — a response so impressive that Frank and his brothers began focusing their construction sights on the senior citizen market and have emerged as leading builders of senior housing in the sunshine state.

Although most retirement communities nowadays require residents to be past a certain age, Mackle's firm imposes no birthday restrictions on buyers.

"In our experience," says Mackle, "folks who retire don't want to be isolated from those who are younger and not yet retired. While we build with older people specifically in mind, we sell homes in our developments to folks of all ages—convinced that elders prefer it this way."

There was considerable biological insight in a recent Blondie cartoon that has Dagwood fuming over household bills and the high cost of supporting a family. When Blondie tells him he should have thought of this before he got married he replied, "If people thought of those things before they got married there wouldn't be any people."

Judging from our mushrooming population, expanding relief rolls and rising unemployment, few parents and educators are taking the trouble to outline for young people the numerous costs, expenses and obligations involved in having children.

If there were greater emphasis on this in homes and schools we might condition young people to wait until they are sure they can afford it before they invite children—life's most precious gift—into this world.

3 Important Power Board Decisions Due This Month

The Nebraska Power Review Board will hand down three major decisions later this month. The rulings will have wide-ranging effect on the state's power picture.

Chairman William Norton of Osceola said decisions in the Beatrice Fertilizer Plant, Fort Randall, S.D., to Grand Island, and the Columbus to Grand Island transmission line cases will be delivered either Oct. 21 or Oct. 28.

Four power suppliers—Norris, Consumers and Loup Public Power Districts and the city of Beatrice — have applied to serve the fertilizer plant, which is expected to use about $10,000 of electricity monthly. The board concluded lengthy hearing on the dispute Tuesday.

The board must approve any electric transmission line extensions over the one-half mile in the state, and all four suppliers would have to build lines more than that distance to serve the plant.

The Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Inc., has asked for authority to build a new 230-kilovolt transmission line from Fort Randall to Grand Island by 1966.

The proposed line would be used to bring additional U.S. Bureau of Reclamation (USBR) power to Nebraska, or carry possible future purchases from the Basin electric cooperative in North Dakota.

The Loup District, Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District, and Norris objected to the G & T application. They contend it is unnecessary.

The Loup District has applied for authority to build a new line from Columbus to Grand Island to bring in extra USBR power from the west.

It's been suggested that Nebraska build an east-west electric line to tie into Stegall to bring additional USBR power into the state.

Sorensen Addresses Young Democrats At U Of N

Philip C. Sorensen, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, spoke to Young Democrats at the University of Nebraska Student Union Wednesday.

In his prepared remarks the Lincoln attorney said "Republicans as well as Democrats recognize the need for a lieutenant governor who can pull with rather than against the governor's office."

Sorensen's next political speech is scheduled for Ord at the Valley County Central Committee dinner Sunday.

$3 Million Hospital Bond Plan Outlined

A $3 million revenue bond plan to aid in the financing of Lincoln General Hospital's estimated $6.5 million hospital replacement was outlined Wednesday to the City Council.

If the council approves the plan, the city would acquire ownership of the hsopital complex at the end of 25 years.

During the revenue bond period, the city would lease the hospital from the Lincoln General Hospital Association, which in turn would operate the facility for the city.

The revenue bond, which would be tax-free and pay 4% interest, would be retired by a $200,000 lease-rental paid annually by the city for 25 years.

$700,000 So Far

This sum is equivalent to the one-mill levy currently being levied by the city toward a hospital construction fund. The tax fund has raised $700,000 thus far, including the current year.

The tax levy, which now can be dropped at any time, would become a contractual obligation of the city during the 25-year bond period.

Judging by the council's individual and group reaction, approval of the proposal appears likely.

Dale Tinstman of First Nebraska Securities said the lease-buy proposal in the form of a contract would take several weeks to prepare for official City Council action.

Once the city becomes sole owner of the hospital, the Lincoln General Hospital Association would become an endowment group to handle the R. E. and Emily J. Moore and other bequests.

The city now owns about $200,000 worth of construction in the hospital. The majority of the buildings and property were acquired through the Moore bequests.

Members of the Lincoln General's board of Trustees and the association's board are the same, though the former operates the hospital and the latter holds the properties.

Appointed By Council

The hospital's trustees are appointed by the City Council.

Hospital Board President Don Shurtleff said the cost of the new hospital building is estimated at $6,568,000.

Federal Hill-Burton funds will pare $2,726,000 from this. Funds available to the hospital will reduce from $3,940,800 to $3,044,000 the amount the city is asked to provide through revenue bonds.

Shurtleff said the hospital plans will be reviewed soon by federal Hill-Burton officials.

He said the board "hopes to open bids by mid-December and get earth turned on the site before the year ends."

Lincoln General has decided to start construction on its own with a moral commitment from the Hill-Burton allocating group, the Nebraska State Hospital Advisory Council, the local hospital will be the next multi-million project to receive aid.

Escapee Pleads Guilty; Gave Self Up In Colorado

Richard Stanly Colgrove, 52-year-old Penitentiary trusty who walked away from the prison in September, pleaded guilty to escape charges in Lancaster District Court.

Colgrove walked away from his work assignment at the Pen powerhouse Sept. 10, and recently gave himself up in Denver and was returned to Lincoln. He was serving a five-year term from Lincoln County for breaking and entering.

Sentencing was deferred pending pre-sentence investigation.

. . . Hruska Informed

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., reported he has obtained from the Interstate Commerce Commission a pledge of increased enforcement of its orders to the nation's railroads to take steps to relieve the worsening boxcar shortage in Nebraska.

Hruska said commissioner Kenneth H. Tuggle, chairman of the ICC's safety and service division, responded to the senator's demand for stricter inspection and enforcement of commission directives ordering prompt return of midwestern cars from eastern shipping points.

"This matter has been handled forcefully with the association of American railroads," Tuggle wrote. "They have impressed upon the railroads' top management the necessity of complying with the orders and intention of the commission, through its safety and service agents, to police these orders. You can be assured that our field representatives will continue to follow this matter closely."

Hruska also has urged that agriculture Secretary Freeman halt Commodity Credit Corporation grain shipments during the car shortage.

Commenting on this, Tuggle wrote that "the uncoordinated grain movements on the part of the Commodity Credit Corporation has been a probelm for many years."

Demo Ag Group To Meet Friday

Kearney (AP) — State chairman John Mitchell said the Nebraska Democratic agriculture advisory council will hold a statewide meeting at Kearney Friday.

The state committee and the 93 county committees made up of 482 members have been invited to attend, along with other interested persons.

Mitchell said speakers will include Democratic congressional candidates William Colwell and Clair Callan.

Dr. Ralph Cole of Holdrege is state chairman of the council.

Mitchell said the meeting's purpose is "to give farmers, ranchers and those interested in agriculture an opportunity to directly participate in Democratic political activity on a statewide basis and is based on the thinking that agriculture is Nebraska's most important industry."

Retired Educator Keeps At Books

Stromsburg (AP) — Walter R. French retired two years ago after 26 years as Stromsburg superintendent of schools, but he is still deep in community affairs.

For the last five months French and his wife have been busy cataloguing the 4,700 books in the City Library.

The filing system is approved by the State Library Commission and some of the financing has been provided by the Woman's Club of Stromsburg. About 50 volunteers have assisted Mr. and Mrs. French.

Demos Tab B. Boyle To Head Drive

Omaha—Former Democratic National Committeeman Bernard J. Boyle of Omaha Wednesday was named chairman for Nebraska of a Commitee of Lawyers for Johnson and Humphrey.

The appointment came from the National Committee of Lawyers for Johnson and Humphrey.

Boyle said he will appoint an executive committee representative of lawyers over the state to work actively for the election of the Democratic presidential and vice presidential candidates.

"I don't intend to stand by and see Nebraska lost by inaction when the state can be carried by President Johnson and Sen. Humphrey," Boyle declared.

"I am certain the lawyers of this state realize the welfare of the nation can be best served by the election of Johnson and Humphrey."

Over 75,000 Students Now Viewing ETV

More than 75,000 elementary and secondary school children across Nebraska are viewing educational television programs from their classrooms this fall, according to Victor Christensen, director of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television.

The council this year counts 46 schools as members, 10 more than last year. Each member school is assessed on a per-student basis to pay the cost of producing the programs.

Participating schools include Alda, Alliance, Auburn, Axtell, Beatrice, Bellevue, Bertrand, Cairo, Concordia College, Darrview, David City, Doane College, Doniphan, Freeman, Garland, Gibbon, Gordon, Grand Island, Grand Island District 38, Gretna, Kearney.

Lincoln, Minden, Murdock, Nebraska City, Kearney State College, Ogallala, Omaha Westside, Palmer, Palmyra, Plymouth, Ralston.

Saline County Districts 9 and 97, St. Anthonys-Farwell, St. Johns Lutheran, Syracuse, Teachers College, Bancroft Grade School, University High, Valparaiso, Waverly, Wilber, Wilcox, Wolbach, Wood River, Wymore-Blue Springs.

The programs are seen on the University of Nebraska television station KUON-TV; KETV, Omaha; KHOL-TV, Holdrege; KHPL-TV, Hayes Center, and KDUH-TV, Hay Springs.

Replacement For Dr. Jolly-Fritz Is Sought At Clinic

State Institutions Director George Morris said Wednesday a search is now under way for a new director of the Central Nebraska Mental Hygiene Clinic at Hastings.

He said it's hoped a replacement for Dr. Roberta Jolly-Fritz, who recently resigned the post, can be found soon.

Meanwhile, Morris added, Dr. Thaddeus Krush, director of community services for the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha, and Dr. Jack Wisman, director of the State Mental Health Clinic at North Platte, will jointly watch over the Hastings clinic operation.

Dr. Krush was in New York City Wednesday. A spokesman at the institute said Dr. Krush would be in Hastings Friday, and that he presumably would drop in at the clinic.

However, he said the primary purpose of the visit would be to attend a meeting of a steering committee of the State Advisory Committee for Comprehensive Mental Health Planning. The meeting will be held in the office of John Lainson, committee chairman.

Landmark Unit Seeking $10,000

The Nebraska Historical Landmark Council has submitted a 1965-67 biennium budget request of $10,000, up $500 or 5% from the current appropriation.

The council normally receives some money through gifts and donations.

Unit Asked To Review U.S. 34 Re-Route

Governor Morrison said Wednesday he has requested the State Highway Advisory Commission to reconsider its recent decision recommending that U.S. 34 from Lincoln to Hastings be re-routed over U.S. 6.

"I've suggested that the commission make further investigation and findings before making any final recommendation to the governor," Morrison told a morning news conference. He said no formal commission recommendation has reached his office yet.

Tuesday, the governor assured about 175 representatives of towns along the present U.S. 34 route that the highway would not be relocated at this time. He said no federal highway will be uprooted in Nebraska unless a crisis exists.

The commission on Sept. 28 drafted a recommendation calling for the U.S. 34 designation from Lincoln to Hastings be changed to follow on U.S. 6, or the southern route to Hastings from Lincoln.

U.S. 34 now follows Neb. 2 to Grand Island, swings south to Hastings and joins U.S. 6 at Hastings.

Concern over the designation stemmed from a high accident and death record on the U.S. 34-2 roadway. It was hoped that changing the designation would relieve traffic congestion.

"I have absolute faith and confidence in every member of the commission. They are not a rubber stamp for the governor or anyone else," Morrison told reporters. "But the governor is responsible under the constitution for ultimate decisions."

Morrison praised the commission, and its chairman, J. R. McBride of Minden for what he described as "doing an outstanding job for obtaining information for the public. They have never been motivated by political cause, nor have they ever yielded to pressure groups. They have done a great job of public service."

Cholera On Increase

Geneva (AP) — More people died of cholera in 1963 than in any of the five preceding years, the World Health Organization (WHO) reported. There were 65,157 cases, 21,735 fatal, compared with 41,575 cases and 12,016 deaths in 1962. India and Pakistan were the principal sufferers.

$3¼ Billion Foreign Aid Bill Signed

Washington (UPI)—President Johnson Wednesday signed into law a $3.25 billion foreign aid appropriation. It is the smallest amount for the program in five years.

The bill provides money for one more year of economic and military assistance to U.S. friends and allies around the world. It was only $266 million below what the administration had asked.

However, not since 1959 has the aid appropriation dipped so low.

Congress usually makes sharp cuts in aid requests, but Johnson convinced the lawmakers that this year's aid budget was a "bare bones" request. He said any big slashes might set back the war in Viet Nam and weaken free world defenses elsewhere.

The aid bill includes $1.05 billion for arms assistance, $773 million for development loans to the poorer nations, $509 million for the Alliance for Progress in Latin America and $401 million to bolster the defense economies of countries bordering on Sino-Soviet bloc.

Johnson also signed a separate bill formally to authorize extension of the aid program for another year.

The Senate added a rider to the latter measure urging that the states be given "reasonable" time to comply with the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling on legislative reapportinment. But the provision was knocked out by a House-Senate conference committee.

Prolonged debate over reapportionment tied up the Senate for more than a month and held up adjournment of Congress.

Prince Peter Holding Out Olive Branch

Athens, Greece (AP)—Prince Peter held out an olive branch to King Constantine Wednesday in the royal squabble over Queen Mother Frederika.

Peter, second in line to the throne, said that harsh remarks he made about Frederika last Sunday were meant only to explain why he did not attend Constantine's wedding. He had not meant to create confusion around the throne, he added.

Constantine and his Danish bride, Queen Anne-Marie, interrupted their honeymoon to return to Athens after Peter's statement. The royal couple went back to their honeymoon hideaway later.

Peter said Sunday that Frederika had created dissension in the royal family for 17 years.

He said Wednesday he had no intention of raising any question about succession rights to the throne and added that this was defined by the constitution.

Tax Statements In Mail; Speedy Payment Urged

The city is sending out some 81,000 personal and real estate tax statements for 1964, City Treasurer Frank Miller said Wednesday.

The tax statements are being mailed at the rat of about 10,000 per day.

City taxes became due Oct. 1. One-half of the tax amount is payable without penalty by Dec. 1 with the second half becoming delinquent June 1.

Miller urged taxpayers to pay their taxes as soon as possible and enclose their statements if they pay by mail.

CANDIDATES—1964:

Rep. Martin Is Proud Of His Conservative Record

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is fourth in a series of stories on candidates whose names will appear on the ballots Nov. 3.)

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Two-term, proudly-conservative Republican Congressman Dave Martin sat on the weathered old bench in front of the Keystone Hotel in McCook facing the warm October sun.

"I think fiscal responsibility and federal spending have to be the major issues in this campaign," Martin began.

"And beef imports—because the Democratic administration opposed legislation in this field. And agriculture in general—because farm parity hsa dropped from an average of 84 during the Eisenhower years to 74 now, the lowest since 1939.

"Cattle prices are the lowest in 18 years, and the number of farmers has been reduced by 500,000 just since 1960."

The 57-year-old Kearney lumberman, who was first elected to the House in 1960 by a mere 3,000 votes, but re-elected in 1962 by a whopping 49,000 ballots, squinted into the noontime glare.

"They say I'm negative, but I think I'm positive," he continued.

Against Spending

"I do vote against big spending and socialistic welfare programs which could more properly be handled by state or local government, or in the private sector.

DAVE MARTIN

"But, in doing that, I am voting for fiscal integrity and for upholding the United States Constitution. I think I'm positive."

And with that, Dave Martin arose from the bench and headed down Norris Avenue to get in a few last campaign licks before the hotel luncheon meeting began.

At 8 a.m. this bright autumn day, Martin and his charming wife had stood in line in the Methodist Church basement in Palisade over in Hitchcock County shaking hands with 160 persons who had come to have early-morning breakfast with participants in the Republican campaign caravan.

It was a brisk 32-degree morning out west (mountain time zone) along the tree-shaded Frenchman River, and appetites were sharpened by the chill.

Candidate's Turn

After a hearty breakfast of eggs, sausage, rolls and coffee—and a few brief speeches—it was Martin's turn.

The federal wheat program, he told this wheat country audience, is "a voluntary compulsion program. It overruled results of the last wheat referendum, took away the right of a referendum this year, and dropped the basic price support from $1.82 to $1.30 a bushel.

"Why, it's one of the lousiest wheat programs we've ever had."

It was 1:30 p.m. before Martin spoke at McCook, and again he defended his record as "positive," and — as always—he tossed in a plug for Barry Goldwater, called for a halt to foreign aid and tagged President Johnson as "the biggest spender" in White House history.

Then the caravan moved north up U.S. 83, through the eroded valleys and vistas of Lincoln County, past shimmering Hugh Butler Lake, through the tiny (pop. 67) community of Wellfleet and into North Platte.

Chat With Press

Martin chatted with the hometown press at roomy Republican headquarters on North Dewey, then headed for the Pawnee Hotel and his third speech of the day. An evening reception completed the schedule.

Martin is making heavy use of his position on the "powerful Rules Committee" of the House. That fact is clearly stated on his campaign cards, and it turns up every time he is introduced to a local audience.

Dave Martin

Office	Congress, Third District
Party	Republican
Age	57
Occupation	Lumberman

The congressman is a veteran of political warfare who many times has traveled the route of the campaign trail. He was Republican state chairman from 1949 to 1954, and sought his party's U.S. Senate nomination in 1954.

Martin has covered the vast, 59-county Third District twice in the past six months, employing congressional recesses and weekends to get an early campaign start.

"Experience counts," his campaign cards state. "You know where he stands."

Dave Martin is counting on his experience, and running on his record in the big Third.

So Rare, But So Decorative

By JUDY SHARP

Is it so rare, in an age of push - button conveniences, that an object from the past can evoke so much interest? In the opinion of many Lincoln citizens, antiques (technically over one hundred years old to be a true antique) are no longer just collector's items, but are valued heirlooms which can add a fascinating touch to the most modern decor.

Antiques galore — everything from furniture, clocks and lamps, to silver, china, glass and dolls—will be on exhibit today, the opening of a three-day antique show to be held at St. Matthew's Church, Episcopal.

Approximately 17 dealers from a four-state area including Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado and Kansas will display their valued antiques for the public—the first antique show to be held in Lincoln for over five years.

Mrs. George Rokahr is chairman for the show, and pictured above getting a preview of many of the collector's articles are Mrs. Joel Babb (left) and Mrs. E. H. Luikart.

Incidentally, a feature of the show, which will be held from 11:30 o'clock to 9:30 o'clock, Thursday and Friday, and from 10 o'clock to 6 o'clock, Saturday, will be the awarding of prizes including a "bride's bowl" of opaline blown glass in the cranberry shade, a Bohemian glass finger bowl, a Russian brass ewer, a 19th century Canton plate—all contributed by members of St. Matthew's Church.

Refreshments will be available, including dinner by reservation.

All Roads Lead To Suburbia

PARK MANOR

Predictions from the armchair weatherman seem to indicate that temperatures are about to rise as though they were filled with yeast.

And since walking is such a good exercise, and since the scenery will be so beautiful, may we suggest that this weekend, your family plans a hike through a park?

Everyone might as well take advantage of the situation, for all too soon November grays will be robbing Nebraska of its natural tints.

Speaking of taking advantage of a situation, quite a few Park Manor residents have been using their time to the best advantage, entertaining here and there.

For our first example this morning, we have Mrs. William J. Praus; who will be hostess Friday evening for three tables of bridge at her home.

Guests will include Mrs. Don Brown, Mrs. Steve Beckman, Mrs. Richard Carver, Mrs. Robert Walton, Mrs. Robert Connor, Mrs. Will Dix, Mrs. Howard Nolan, Mrs. John Gabrick, Mrs. Robert Hewston, Mrs. Clifford Clark, and Mrs. Ralph Klein.

Being a den mother may take a great deal of time, but the job also offers the advantage of fun. Mrs. Lester Frohlich, who is den mother for Den 1, Pack 71, is well aware of this, especially after she accompanied the boys on a field trip Tuesday afternoon.

They toured the Humane Society, and according to Mrs. Frohlich, the trip was very educational. Assisting her was Mrs. Eugene Ingram.

The welcome mat and the doorbell are being readied for this weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Eddins and their children, Stuart, Jr., and Susan Kay.

Coming from Huntington, W. Va., for a visit will be Mr. Eddin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Eddins, who will arrive Sunday.

This morning seems like a perfect time to introduce a family of newcomers to Park Manor—and Lincoln. They are Dr. and Mrs. Albert Guminski and their five month-old son, Thomas Robert.

They moved to Lincoln from Chicago, Ill., only a few days ago. Dr. Guminski is a graduate of the University of Illinois and is associated as a veterinarian with a Lincoln laboratory.

COTNER TERRACE

There is no doubt as to which sport is king in Nebraska — football. And on occasions, the trip to a game is just as much fun as watching it.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Barry were among the fans Saturday at Ames, Iowa, where they cheered NU on to a victory. Mr. and Mrs. Barry traveled to Ames via a bus loaded with employees from the Court house and their families, returning to Lincoln Saturday evening.

As the evenings get cooler and cooler, bridge get-togethers become more and more popular as an indoor entertainment. Testimony for this is provided by Mrs. Wilmer Case, who will be hostess Oct. 28 at a bridge party at her home.

Her guests for an evening of cards and late dessert will be Mrs. Tom Soukup, Mrs. Tom Fox, Mrs. Alan Schuster, Mrs. Jack Mares, Mrs. Rollie Haas, Mrs. Melvin Brydl, and Mrs. Gale Darnell.

CHATTER — in the — CORRIDOR

By SHARON HALL

Three weeks of school now have been completed and the Links are really beginning to get busy! "New" is the key word for this year.

Lincoln High School students were greeted by a "new look" upon their return from summer vacation. An enlarged cafeteria, a renovated student lounge, and a new little theatre are only part of the improvements being added. The auditorium has been modernized and redecorated, and clock watchers rejoice—the new clock and bell system really works!

Another addition to Lincoln High is the new scheduling plan for a seven-period day. Some students attend from 8:00 o'clock to 2:30 o'clock, while others attend from 9:00 o'clock to 3:30 o'clock. This is to reduce the teacher load and overcrowded classrooms due to a total of 2,308 students attending Lincoln High this year.

Homecoming semi-finalists were revealed last week. The Queen, to be picked from among the following, will be crowned at the Homecoming game with Omaha Bishop Ryan on Oct. 24. Candidates include Phyllis Bomberger, Jane Bush, Cathy Cave, Vicki Jacobson, Janet Kahler, Deanna Lewis, Kathy Ness, Jane Proctor, Joannie Rider, Jeanne Schneider, and Janis Sommer. Good luck, girls!

"Jenny Kissed Me," has been selected as the all-school play. Announced as cast member's are Bruce Raymer, Mal Keelan, Jane Pohlemus, Tori Pearlstein, Gayla Anderson, Cathy Pfund, Jody Goetowski, Cathy Cleveland, Marsha Bowlin, Bruce Rauscher, Lavonna Reeves, Sally Davidson, Karin Miller, and Jim Cooper. Congratulations, cast!

East met West at Lincoln High this year with the arrival of American Field Service students Chako Ogawa from Japan, and Werner Goessling from Germany. Both are participating actively at school. Welcome Werner and Chako!

Going along with the "new" theme are the newly-elected senior class officers including: Atricia Sultzbaugh, president; Sally Freeman, vice-president; Bob Cole, secretary; and Frank Brill, treasurer.

Another "Lincoln High job well done" is a phrase very familiar to any student of Lincoln High and this applies especially to the National Merit semi-finalists announced recently. Robert Solick, Bruce Raymer, Don Forsyth, Dave Forsyth, Francis St. Amant, and Walter Warnholz are the honored six.

Soon the newness will be wearing off, even for the new sophomores, so until then, bye!

Good luck at Grand Island, Links!

Patricia Scott

Q. Whenever I sew a hem on bulky coats or jackets, the stitch marks can be seen, even though I only catch a thread of the fabric. Is a special stitch required? Mrs. W. H.

A. The catch-stitch is generally best for this purpose. Work from left to right, crossing threads at each stitch. Catch only one or two threads of the fabric.

Q. Where should I place the tape to take my hip measurement? Mrs. L. T.

A. At the fullest part. Place the tape around the hips about seven inches below the waist.

☆ ☆ ☆

Q. In proportioned patterns, do the bust, waist and hip measurements change with each proportion? Miss M. Z.

A. No. Your standard body measurements remain the same as in regular patterns. Only the length proportions differ in the Short, Average or Tall patterns.

Q. I would like to make lounging pants of stretch fabric for home wear. What types of stretch are available? Miss A. T.

A. There are three types: vertical, horizontal, and two-way. Either vertical or horizontal can be used for pants, but I suggest the horizontal stretch for casual clothes as against active (ski) sportswear because they give with the body. They are more comfortable than the vertical that are held taut by a strap under the foot. The two-way stretch is only used for foundation garments.

Q. How can I decide how much extra fabric to buy when I use a plaid and it is not given on the pattern? Miss R. H.

A. If you are working with a small plaid, buy ¼ yard extra. For large plaid, buy ½ yard more.

☆ ☆ ☆

Q. I want to make a fleece coat (with a definite nap) for winter. When cutting, in which direction should the nap go? Mrs. C. M.

A. The nap should be cut so it is running down.

☆ ☆ ☆

Q. When cutting out a pattern should the fabric be cut on the right or wrong side? Miss A. G.

A. When cutting a double layer of fabric place pattern pieces on the wrong side. When cutting on a single layer place pattern on the right side.

Dear Abby

Call A Crush, A Crush

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have loved a boy for a year now and all he ever says to me is, "Hi." I know if I could get him alone and into a conversation with me I could get him to love me, too, but so far I have not had the chance. Is there any way I can get this boy to love me? I love him so much I cry myself to sleep at night.

IN LOVE

DEAR IN LOVE: I don't know how old you are, but if you are 12 or over you need more help than I can give in a letter. "Love is sure. Love is mature. Love is sharing. Love is caring. Love is giving. Love is mutual. You have a "crush" on this boy, which is natural enough for a young girl. But call a crush a crush, Honey, and save that very special word, "love," for the deep and serious relationship it deserves.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have a very good friend who has a very bad habit. She will invite you over and then spend all her time doing her housework right in your face. I feel so foolish trying to talk to her while she is too busy to listen to what I have to say. She gives me grunts for answers and nods her head once in a while. Today I followed her around while she washed down her walls, and when she was finished she started in on her ironing. Do you think she needs to be taught some manners or is a guest expecting too much to want her hostess to sit down and act like a hostess? We have been close friends for 22 years.

FEELING FOOLISH

DEAR FEELING: Perhaps because you've been "close" friends for 22 years, she doesn't consider you a "guest" or herself a "hostess." But if she feels "close" enough to ignore you, you should feel "close" enough to tell her please to light somewhere and be better company.

Hadassah Speaker

Mrs. Raphael Tourover, a member of the national Board of Hadassah since 1939, will speak in Lincoln Friday evening following the regular services at Tifereth Israel Synagogue. The public has been invited to hear her talk.

A volunteer worker on an international scale, she is Hadassah's liaison officer in Washington, D.C., with U.S. government agencies.

In 1955, Mrs. Tourover went on a special mission to Israel to aid in the development of a coordinated program of distributing surplus foods given to Hadassah by the American government. She is presently the representative for Hadassah on Food For Peace Council.

She holds the degree of LLB from George Washington University Law School and has been a member of the Bar of the District of Columbia since 1924. In her many tours of Israel, she has familiarized herself with the institutions and settlements, especially in connection with immigrants.

Mrs. Tourover has been a member of the Actions Committee of the World Zionist Organization since 1956 and has just returned from the latest meeting held in Israel this year.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♥ (!)

Opening lead—two of clubs.

Truth is stranger than fiction, they say, and here is a tale to bear out the legend.

The hand occurred in a rubber bridge game. The stakes were high, the atmosphere tense, and all the players except South were first-rate.

North had been having a tough time all evening, largely because he had cut South as a partner most of the time. So when he heard South open the bidding with a diamond, he cheered up considerably, since it looked as though he was about to win a rubber at long last. He responded two spades.

South now bid two hearts, which was insufficient. West called attention to the insufficient bid and offered to explain the options South could exercise, but South, looking at his score pad, brushed him aside, saying, "It's all right. I bid three diamonds. We have game and forty."

North groaned and said, "We happen to have game and thirty, for your information, and furthermore, you've now succeeded in barring me from the bidding. Can't you even keep score correctly?"

So the outcome was that South wound up playing the hand at three diamonds, making seven, and, of course, the opponents won the rubber on the next deal.

If South had corrected his insufficient bid to three hearts, there would have been no penalty and a successful slam might eventually have been reached. An insufficient bid made sufficient in the same suit carries no penalty.

When North explained this, South replied, "Well, I've already told you several times I thought we had forty on and I thought I was making a game bid, and besides, I wouldn't dream of bidding three hearts with a four-card suit!"

Aside from what happened, the hand is a curiosity in other respects. Strangely enough, as the cards happen to lie, North-South could have made a grand slam in spades, hearts, diamonds, clubs, or notrump!

A Glamour Dish From Italy

Along sunny Sicilian shores, swordfish is a traditional favorite from the blue Mediterranean. Served sizzling hot from a copper casserole with spicy Italian tomato sauce, it's an easy-glamour dish.

Set a festive board in formal white linen or with a bright checkered cloth. Don't forget to use candles in decorative bottles or candle holders. Then, with a triumphant flourish, bring to the table Swordfish Marineo in its bubbling sauce. Surround it with an accompanying menu styled in the Italian manner.

Serve sea shell macaroni with broccoli, tossed green salad glistening with your favorite garlic, oil and vinegar dressing and hot Italian bread or breadsticks. Finish this repast with a truly continental dessert—a basket of fresh pears, apples and grapes with the cheese of your choice and toasted crackers. A sparkling red Chianti or a rose wine will add that touch of luxury.

SWORDFISH MARINEO
(serves 6)

2 to 3 lbs. swordfish steaks, fresh or frozen
Instant Meat Tenderizer
For Sauce Marineo:
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon flour
¼ cup minced onion
3 cups cooked tomatoes (No. 2-½ can)
¼ teaspoon sweet basil
2 whole cloves
Dash freshly ground pepper
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ cup dry red wine
½ cup sliced stuffed green olives
½ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon capers, drained

1. To Make Sauce: Heat oil in saucepan; stir in flour, blending smoothly; add onion and brown lightly; add tomatoes, sweet basil, cloves, pepper and sugar; cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer five minutes longer.

2. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Sprinkle swordfish evenly on both sides with Instant Meat Tenderizer like salt. Use no salt.

3. Place swordfish in a greased baking dish; pour sauce over. Bake fresh fish 20-25 minutes; frozen fish 30-35 minutes. Baste frequently with sauce.

SEA SHELL MACARONI WITH BROCCOLI

1. Cook 1 pound small sea shell macaroni according to package directions. Drain.

2. In large heavy skillet, heat ½ cup oil to sizzling; add 1 pound cooked cut broccoli; saute lightly 3-4 minutes. Remove from heat. Add drained macaroni, 1-3 cup grated Parmesan cheese; toss well. Place in 2 quart casserole and brown top lightly in 400 degree F. oven about 5 minutes.

Soup Tricks

Team tangy herb flavored tomato soup with a hot sandwich for a quick lunch. Holland rusk topped with bologna and cheese, heated until the cheese is melted, will please children and grownups alike.

HERBED TOMATO SOUP

Mix 10½-ounce can condensed tomato soup, 1 soup can water, ¼ teaspoon oregano, ¼ teaspoon marjoram leaves, ¼ teaspoon basil leaves, ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper and 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Heat, stirring occasionally until soup comes to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Makes 3 to 4 servings. Top rusk with a thick slice of bologna, then with a slice of American process cheese. Heat in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 10 minutes or until cheese is melted and bubbly. Serve immediately.

Creamy rich with the sweet taste of corn . . . this chowder could be served at a luncheon for the girls or a Sunday night supper for the family.

CHICKEN CORN CHOWDER

Mix 1 10½-ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup, 1 soup can milk, 1 12-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained, and a dash of ground black pepper. Heat stirring occasionally. Makes 4 to 6 servings. Serve with wafers and a whole tomato cut part way through in sections with a cucumber slice inserted into each cut.

Elegant enough for a company menu . . . the flavor blend in this soup tastes as though you slaved over a hot stove all day. Actually it is one of those quick-as-a-wink recipes to serve with crabmeat on top of crackers.

TUNA MUSHROOM SOUP

Mix 1 10½-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup, 1 soup can milk, 1 7-ounce can drained and flaked tuna, teaspoon garlic powder, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, dash of cayenne pepper and dash of ground black pepper. Heat, stirring occasionally. Serve with RITZ Crackers heaped with crabmeat salad.

Around The Clock

To help your family enjoy good nutrition around the clock, we offer these recipes. They will be the star of any menu, regardless of the time of day it is served.

BUTTERMILK GRIDDLE CAKES

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
2½ cups buttermilk
¼ cup melted butter (½ stick)

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and sugar. Beat eggs; add buttermilk and butter to blend. Add to dry ingredients and stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Meantime, heat griddle and grease lightly. Ladle about 3 tablespoons of the batter onto griddle for each cake and cook over moderate heat until bubbles break on surface. Turn lightly and continue to bake until golden brown. Transfer to warm plates and serve with butter and syrup, honey or preserves. Makes 24 4-inch cakes. Or, why not try these?

BARBEQUED CHEESEWICHES

2 cups shredded process American cheese (½ lb.)
¼ cup soft butter (½ stick)
1 tablespoon chile sauce or catsup
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon finely minced onion
Dash of cayenne or pepper sauce
8 lightly buttered hamburger buns

Shred cheese with a fine shredder and combine with butter, chili sauce, mustard, onion and cayenne. Allow to stand 1 hour to blend flavors, then spread between halves of buns. Wrap in foil and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 15 to 20 minutes, or until buns are heated and cheese has softened. Makes 8 servings.

Simply Delicious

A Chinese philosopher, writing about life, said that the most satisfying emotion — after love — is eating. It is true that good food is a joy shared by all nationalities, both sexes and by people old and young.

Today, we are offering the recipe for Chicken in Casserol Tarragon. Many good cooks prefer to disjoint the chicken so that the flavorful sauce will seep all the way through. Serve this delicious dish with a green salad — and that does it!

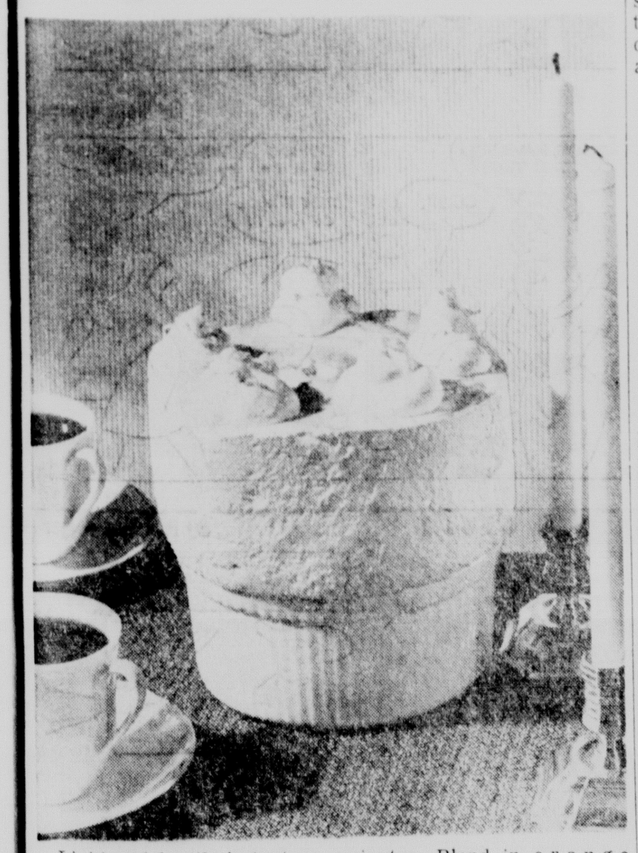

CHICKEN IN CASSEROLE TARRAGON

2½ cups water
Chicken giblets
1 (4-6lb.) roasting chicken
Salt
Pepper
1 bunch fresh tarragon chopped, (or 1½ teaspoons dried)
½ cup melted butter
1 cup heavy cream

Preheat oven to 375 degree. Bring water to boil in saucepan, add giblets and reduce heat. Simmer for ½ hour or until done. Remove liver after first 10 to 15 minutes, depending on size. Meanwhile, season chicken inside and out, place few sprigs fresh tarragon, or ½ teaspoon dried, inside chicken. Butter chicken generously (chicken may be disjointed if you prefer), place in skillet and put in oven. When giblets are done, remove chicken from skillet, place in casserole and return to oven. Put giblet stock in skillet in which chicken has cooked, and simmer until approximately one cup remains. Add tarragon and cream and mix well. Strain over chicken. Allow chicken to simmer in oven until tender, allowing ½ hour per pound total cooking time (an additional 1¼ to 2¼ hours, depending on size of chicken). Decorate chicken with remaining tarragon.

Note: ½ cup dry white wine may be substituted for ½ cup of giblet stock if preferred. Wine should be added after thickening sauce with corn starch and reduced according to taste.

Light And Fluffy

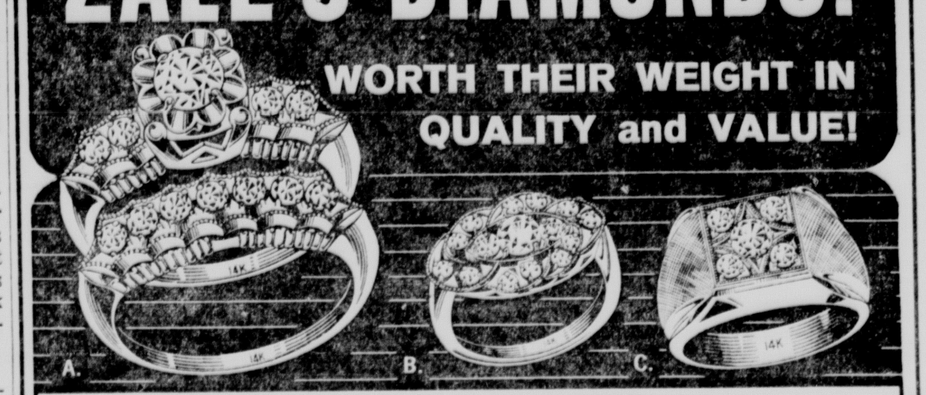

Light and fragile in texture, this classic Orange Souffle' can be made with a new and distinctively different whipped dessert mix.

ORANGE SOUFFLE'

2 packages vanilla whipped dessert mix.
1 cup cold water
1 cup cold fresh orange juice
1-½ teaspoons grated orange rind
1 egg white
2 tablespoons sugar

In a deep narrow bowl, thoroughly blend dessert mix and water. Whip at high speed of electric mixer 2 minutes. Blend in orange juice. Whip at high speed 5 minutes. Fold in orange rind. Beat egg white until foamy throughout. Gradually add sugar, beating thoroughly. Continue beating until meringue will form stiff shiny peaks. Fold into orange dessert. Spoon into a 1-quart serving dish or a 2-½-cup souffle' dish which has been extended with a paper collar. Chill 3 to 4 hours. Garnish with whipped cream and additional grated orange rind, if desired. Makes about 6 cups or 8 to 10 servings.

CARDS SPILL YANKEES, 9-5

Redbird Fans Savor 1st-Day Spectacle

★ ★ ★

Keane Says Shannon Turned Tide

St. Louis (AP)—The St. Louis dressing room was strangely quiet following the Cardinals' 9-5 pasting of the New York Yankees Wednesday in the first game of the 1964 World Series.

Manager Johnny Keane set the low-key atmosphere.

Relaxed and smoking his thin cigar, the quiet-spoken 53-year-old Redbird manager was jammed in a corner talking to reporters, who were making more noise than his players.

"We played methodical ball today," he said. "Our men came through when they had to. The Yankees were tough, but we arose to the occasion."

Players and coaches sprawled and sat and stood throughout the clubhouse. They drank beer, soda, water —and answered hundreds of questions.

A mob scene of newsmen formed around Mike Shannon, the Cards' right-fielder who had inspired his teammates and tied the game with a tremendous two-run homer in the sixth.

Cardinal shortstop Dick Groat and left-fielder Lou Brock had identical reasons why the dressing room was unusually quiet after a victory.

"We know we still have to win three more," said Groat.

"We aren't whooping it up until it's all over," added Brock. "My last nervous game was last Friday against the Mets — and we lost it 1-0. I'm not nervous any more."

Little Curt Flood, the centerfielder, was discussing his slight build and the effect it may have had on his triple which put the Cards ahead to stay later in the inning.

And Barney Schultz, the 38-year-old relief pitcher whose knuckleballs kept the dreaded Yankee hitters off balance, was telling about his fingers.

But Keane came up with his version of the game's key play, and this was what everyone was waiting to hear.

"If I picked the turning point of the game—the one that got us the chance we needed and inspired the players," he said, "it would have to be Shannon's home run. That was about the longest ball I've ever seen hit out here."

Shannon had just about knocked the "B" out of "Budweiser," the advertisement for one of Cardinal owner August A. Busch Jr.'s brews atop the huge scoreboard in left. A team spokesman said the ball—which got a lift from the 16 m.p.h. wind — traveled at least 475 or 500 feet.

It came with one out in the sixth, Ken Boyer aboard and the Yanks leading 4-2.

"I knew Shannon's ball was a homer when it was hit," moaned the Yankee starter and loser, Whitey Ford. "He hit one of my curve balls."

"That wasn't the longest ball I ever hit," said Shannon. "I hit one longer than that in Pittsburgh, and you should have seen the one I hit in Dublin, Ga.—not Ireland. I really shilellaghed it!"

Flood, who weighs "about 157 pounds," thought he had enough good wood on his triple off the wall in the sixth to go for a homer.

"But that's the way it is with a little fellow," he said. "I gave it all I had—but it wasn't enough. Now if Boyer had hit that ball, they'd still be chasing it."

Over in the corner, the ageless, balding Schultz was looking at his right index finger.

"There's a small blister under the nail," he said. "But it doesn't bother me much. However, it might have some effect if I have to pitch a lot of innings. You see, I dig my first two fingers into the ball when I throw my knuckler."

Schultz' knuckler kept the Yanks swinging at air in the last few innings, although a few batters got to him, even adding a run in the eighth. But he wasn't pounded hard and saved the game for left-handed starter Ray Sadecki.

"Who taught you to throw tye knuckler, Barney?" asked a reporter. "Barney Schultz," the relief artist replied.

Sadecki praised Schultz.

"He's great," said the 23-year-old lefty, who had bested the veteran Ford. "Schultz has been one of the main reasons we're playing the World Series here."

FORD CUT DOWN AT HOME . . . Sequence camera watches Whitey begin ill-fated slide into Cards' Tim McCarver.

St. Louis (AP)—Mike Shannon, a borth of a laddie from county St. Louis in Missouri, made up for two months in the minors with a tape measure home run off Whitey Ford Wednesday in the St. Louis Cardinals's 9-5 World Series opener victory over the New York Yankees.

Demoted to Jacksonville for weak hitting in May, Shannon came back to lead the Cards to a 1-0 Series edge over the proud Yanks before 39,805 home town fans at Busch Stadium.

"You should have seen the one I hit in Dublin—Georgia," said Shannon in the clubhouse with a wide grin.

A pinch single by Carl Warwick, playing for the first time since his cheek was fractured in a freak batting practice accident in late September, drove in the go-ahead run for the Cards in a big four-run sixth inning.

As a result of this triumph in a free-hitting battle, Manager Johnny Keane goes into Thursday's second game with a decided edge.

Bob Gibson, the fire-balling right-hander who would have worked the opener if he hadn't had to pitch in relief Sunday, will go against Mel Stottlemyre, a 22-year-old rookie.

Gibson has a chance of making it two in a row before the Series moves on to New York.

They said Shannon's home run off the big "B" of a brewery sign atop the scoreboard in left traveled between 450 and 475 feet. The Yanks, experts at tape measuring their own homers, didn't bother to put the tape to this one.

The big inning and another bundle of three in the eighth, when Yogi Berra dredged his bullpen, sent the Yanks crashing down to their fifth straight Series defeat. As everybody recalls, they lost four in a row to the Los Angeles Dodger last year.

It also was a fourth straight defeat for Ford, who was knocked out by Shannon's homer and a following double by Tim McCarver.

Warwick, who went into the game with a scar on his right cheek and a "throb in my head" as a souvenir of a line drive during a Sept. 27 batting practice, stroked home the tie-breaking run with a pinch single off relief man Al Downing.

Until the Cardinal uprising, Ford had been rolling along with a five-hitter and a 4-2 edge over Ray Sadecki but the old master was not in his usual sharp form. Only the fact that the Yanks had been nipping away at Sadecki had kept him in control.

A stiff wind from the southeast that stiffened the pennants atop Busch Stadium helped Shannon's drive and also boosted Tom Tresh's two-run 400-foot homer into the left center field seats in the Yankee second.

This definitely was not a pitcher's day. Sadecki, the winner, allowed eight hits in six innings before he was lifted for a pinch hitter. Ford, making his 22nd Series start, was bombed out in the sixth and charged with five of the Cardinals runs.

If there was a pitcher to write about it was Barney Schultz, a 38-year-old refugee from the farm system by way of two or three big league clus. The knuckle ball artist, so important in the Cards' late pennant drive with 11 saves, allowed the Yanks only one run in the last three innings.

When danger threatened, Schultz was able to dig down a little deeper and pitch his way out of it. After Mickey Mantle singled and Tresh walked in the seventh, he struck out Joe Pepitone. After a run had scored and the Yanks had Bobby Richardson on second and Roger Maris on first with two out in the eighth, Old Barney forced Mantle to ground to Julian Javier.

In the ninth, Schultz had them on the hip all the way, 1-2-3.

The opening victory was a tremendous lift to the Cards, who had been 17-10 underdogs in the Series and 6-5 in the first game. They had been forced to gamble with Sadecki, a 20-game winner but often erratic, because Manager Johnny Keane had to jumble his pitching to clinch the pennant on the final day.

Having beaten Ford, the Yanks' ace, the Cards now are able to send fire-balling Bob Gibson, 19-12, against the Yanks' rookie Mel Stottlemyre, 9-3, in Thursday's second game. There will be a day off for travel Friday before the Series resumes in New York Saturday with Curt Simmons, 18-9, of the Cards facing Jim Bouton, 18-13, at Yankee Stadium.

Two Yankee errors and a pair of passed alls by Elston Howard marred the play of the American League champs while the Cards played errorless ball and came through with some fine fielding plays by Ken Boyer and Curt Flood and an excellent throw by Lou Brock.

The Cards drew first blood with a run in the first on singles by Brock and Dick Groat and Ken Boyer's sacrifice fly to Mantle in right field.

The Yanks fired back with a big three in the second and threatened to unhinge Mr. Sadecki. Howard singled past shortstop with one out and Tresh hammered a 400-foot homer into the bleacher seats in left center.

After Pepitone grounded out, Clete Boyer singled to center, stole second and scored on Ford's single, just barely fair down the right field line.

Phil Linz walked on four straight pitches, and when Bobby Richardson slashed a single to left, Ford tried to score from second base and was thrown out with plenty to spare by Brock. Sadecki scooted out of the inning by getting Roger Maris on a called third strike.

St. Louis got one back off Ford in the second on Shannon's single, an infield out and a single by Sadecki.

Then the Yanks picked up a fourth run in the fifth on two-out singles by Mantle and Howard and a double by Tresh that bounced high over Ken Boyer's head into left field.

There it was for all to read on the scoreboard in left as the Cards came up in the sixth—New York 4, St. Louis 2.

Ken Boyer opened it with a single to left and Yogi Berra started men warming up in the bullpen. After Bill White struck out, Shannon unloaded the big boomer off the scoreboard, tying the score.

Keane said of the blast, "It was one of the longest home runs ever seen here."

Tim McCarver lined a double to right center and that was all for Ford, who got a big hand as he left the hill.

Charlie James batted for Dal Maxvill but popped out, then Keane called on Warwick, who hadn't been in a game since his cheek bone was fractured 10 days ago. He grounded a single to left, knocking in McCarver with the go-ahead run.

—AFTER FORD LEFT—

Downing Was Best Yogi Had

St. Louis (AP) —Yogi Berra gave a meek chuckle through his ham sandwich and said "but we don't have him."

The question had been, "Would you have liked to have had Pete Ramos out there?"

But Ramos, the Yankees' late-season relief specialist, was back in New York, ineligible for the World Series, and the New York manager had had to call on Al Downing to relieve in the sixth as the St. Louis Cardinals bunched five hits for four runs en route to a 9-5 victory.

"I knew they had those right-handed hitters when I went to take Whitey out," Berra said. "But Downing was the best I had down there so I brought him in.

"I needed someone for a strikeout and it was Downing. If they had men on first and second, I probably would have brought Mikkelsen in for the double play."

Berra had yanked starter Whitey Ford after Mike Shannon hit a towering homer deep to the left center field bleachers to tie the score. When Tim McCarver followed with a double, Ford came out.

Al Downing came in with right-handed hitting Charley James already announced as the pinch hitter. James popped out, but pinch hitter Carl Warwick and Curt Flood followed with a single and triple, respectively, to put the Cardinals ahead to stay.

Ford said after he got a 3-1 lead in the second inning, "I felt like I could hold 'em. But it was a tough day to pitch — you had to keep the ball low. It's a little easier pitching in New York — you can make a mistake there and it's just a fly ball."

The short confines of Busch Stadium and a 16-mile per hour wind contributed to Ford's downfall, but he admitted that he knew "Shannon's ball was a homer when it was hit."

"Shannon's homer came on a slider that came up," said catcher Elston Howard. "Some of his breaking stuff was coming up — not all, and as a matter of fact he still was throwing good when he came out of the ball game."

Berra said that "if McCarver only gets a single I leave Whitey in there and go for the double play, but I had to get him out.'

The Yankee manager also said that despite Downing's showing, he would be the No. 1 man in the bullpen, again Thursday "if he can do it. He's never pitched relief two straight times, so I'll have to ask him. But they didn't hit the ball off him that good. They just found some of the holes we didn't."

Berra said when Ford was thrown out in the second inning trying to score from second on a single by Bobby Richardson, "Ford should have come — there's no doubt about that—but the throw got a good hop right into the catcher's mitt.

"The catcher might have decoyed him."

Ford said catcher McCarver had held his hands at his sides on the play as if no throw was being made, but "I was running all the way. I went as far as I could and I slid. That's all that's to it. Once I get by third I don't look around to see if anyone's decoying.

Ford also said Berra had his mind made up to take him out when he came out to the mound the first time. Berra left the mound, returned to the dugout, then came out again.

"He usually asks me what I think," said Ford, who doubles as Yankee pitching coach, "but he didn't this time. He just said, 'I'm gonna get Downing in.' "

Tom Tresh, Yankee left fielder who fell trying to latch onto Flood's triple in the sixth, said, "The ball went into the sun and I couldn't see it. When it came out, it was already too far away.

Young Mel Stottlemyre, the rookie right-hander who will pitch the second game for the Yankees, said he was impressed by the Cardinals "because they have a well-balanced team and speed."

NU Will Be At Full-Strength For Scrap With Gamecocks

... JETER NEARS TOP SPEED

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska is expected to be at full strength with the exception of quarterback Fred Duda when it meets South Carolina in a Band Day affair Saturday at NU's Memorial Stadium.

Husker coach Bob Devaney listed probable starting lineups Wednesday with no changes from the teams that opened against Iowa State last week except for the quarterback post.

Offensive right end Tony Jeter was running at near full speed again Wednesday after being slowed some Tuesday and he is expected to be at full speed for the Gamecocks.

Chuck Doepke, who has been working at both ends, returned to the Husker camp Wednesday after missing workouts Monday and Tuesday with the flu.

The Husker staff began working Wayne Weber into the picture Wednesday, alternating him on offense with both Doug Tucker's team and Larry Wachholtz's outfit.

Weber was pronounced fit for Saturday's action if he is needed.

The NU offensive lineup against the Gamecocks will have Bob Churchich at quarterback with Frank Solich and Bruce Smith alternating at fullback, Bob Hohn and Kent McCloughan at halfbacks, Jeter and Freeman White at ends, Dennis Carlson and Larry Kramer at tackles, John Dervin and Ron Griesse at guards and Lyle Sittler at center.

The defensive alignment will have Langston Coleman and Mike Grace at ends, John Strohmyer and Richard Czap at tackles, Walt Barnes at middle guard, Bernie McGinn and Mike Kennedy at linebackers, Joe McNulty and Maynard Smidt at the corner backs and Wachholtz and Ted Vactor as the deep backs.

McCloughan Second

Nebraska halfback Kent McCloughan ranks second in the nation in scoring with his 30 points tying him with six others. Alabama's Joe Namath is the leader with 36.

Missouri quarterback Gary Lane is 11th in total offense, according to statistics released Wednesday by the NCAA Service Bureau in New York City. Lane has gained 449 yards in the Tigers' three games.

Gale Sayers of Kansas has rushed for 263 yards to put him ninth nationally in rushing.

Osborne Scouting

Nebraska assistant coach Tom Osborne will scout the Huskers next foe Saturday when Kansas State plays host to Missouri at Manhattan.

The Huskers meet K-State in a Homecoming contest Oct. 17.

NU Harrier Team Set For Opener

Nebraska's cross country team, rich with balance this year, opens its season against Iowa State and Minnesota over the Cyclones' three-mile course at Ames, Ia., this Saturday.

That balance quality, lacking in previous years, brings an optimistic tone from Coach Frank Sevigne. Last year the Huskers lost all four duals and ended sixth in the Big Eight Conference meet.

Larry Toothaker, two-letter winner from Plattsmouth and the only senior on the squad, will lead the NU team with juniors Tucker Lillis and Peter Scott, who showed promise as distance runners during the outdoor season.

The squad's sophomores include: Joe Perez, Jim Ryan, Lowell Stratton, and Jim Scherzberg, a transfer from Kearney State Teachers College.

The two Husker home duals, against Kansas State (Oct. 17) and Missouri (Oct. 31), will be over a newly-laid out three-mile course near Seacrest Field.

Other competition will include Kansas State at Lincoln, Oct. 17; Colorado at Boulder on Oct. 24; Missouri at Lincoln again on Oct. 31; and the Big Eight Conference Meet at Manhattan, Kansas, Nov. 7.

Protest Cabled To Olympic Committee

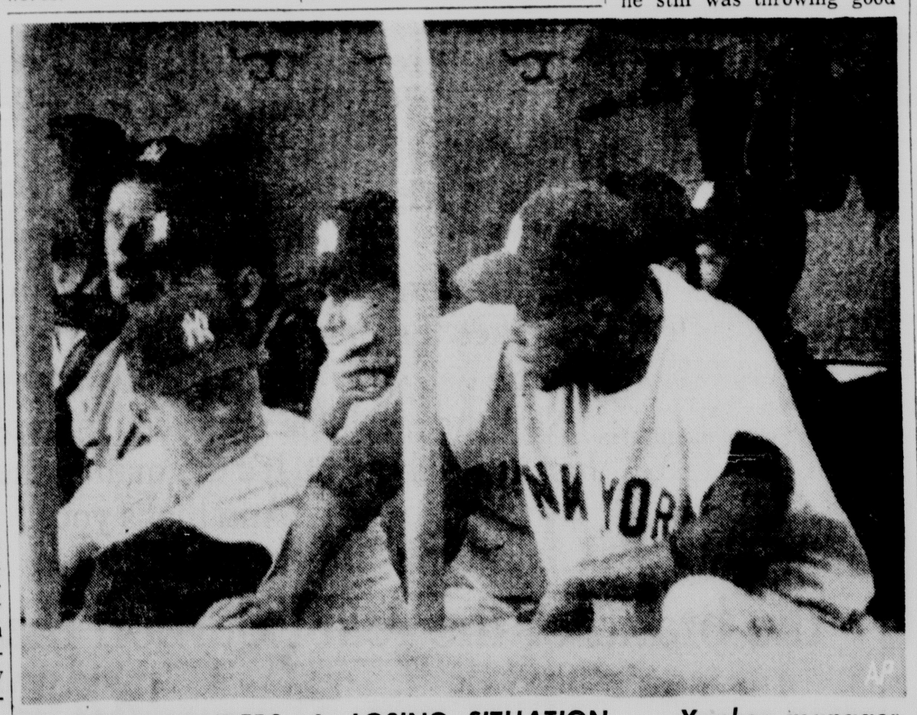

Seuol (AP) — An organization of South Korean newsmen sent a cable to the chairman of the Tokyo Olympic Organization Committee Wednesday protesting an incident in which South Korean news photographers were manhandled by members of a pro-North Korean crowd.

The photographers were covering the arrival North Korean Olympic delegation in Tokyo Monday.

Ladies Night Out Set For Thursday Nights

A Ladies Night Out has been scheduled each Thursday evening by the Lincoln City Recreation Department at the Lincoln Southeast gymnasium.

The first night out is slated for tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 and each Thursday night for the next eight weeks. The program includes a series of informal exercises and games for business ladies and housewives.

Boyer Brothers Play To Standoff In Series Opener

St. Louis (AP) — Brothers Ken and Clete Boyer played almost to a standoff Wednesday in the first game of the World Series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ken, 33, of the Cardinals, was playing in the first World Series, while Clete, 27, was appearing in his fifth with the Yankees.

Ken drove in the first St. Louis run with a sacrifice fly in the first inning, walked in the third and opened a decisive four-run sixth with a single. He struck out in the seventh and popped out in the eighth.

Clete, although hitting the ball on the nose all day, managed only one hit, a single during a three-run third inning. He twice grounded out and flied deep to center field in his other three trips to the plate.

Cyclone Tackle Wins Big 8 Lineman Award

. . . FOR PLAY AGAINST NU

By Associated Press

Nebraska beat Iowa State 14-7 last week and the Cornhuskers probably consider themselves fortunate they don't have to meet John van Sicklen again.

Van Sicklen plays tackle for Iowa State and his ferocious play against Nebraska earned him the nod today as the Lineman of The Week in The Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Van Sicklen's stellar performance also brought him the honor of being the Big Eight Conference Lineman of The Week.

Other nominees for national recognition this week included:

Tackles — Wayne Tvrdik, New Mexico. Al Atkinson, Villanova. Harvey Catlin, Kansas.

Ends — Ben Hawkins, Arizona State. Pete Bonds, San Jose State. Rick Kestner, Kentucky. George Thomas, Oklahoma State.

Centers and linebackers — Tom Cecchini, Michigan. Jack Chapple, Stanford. Tommy Nobis, Texas. Budda Randolph Middle Tenn. Steve Sidwell, Colorado.

Van Sicklen was also tabbed lineman of-the-week in the Big Eight Conference. Others getting votes were Mike Kennedy, Nebraska; George Thomas, Oklahoma State; Steve Sidwell, Colorado; Bill Matan, Kansas State; Butch Allison, Missouri; Harvey Catlin, Kansas.

Husker Fullback Solich Big 8's Back Of Week

. . . FOR CYCLONE PLAY

By Associated Press

Frank Solich, little Nebraska fullback who gained 78 yards rushing, 52 more on runback and made several key plays in his team's victory over Iowa State is the Big Eight Conference back of the week.

Solich is listed at 162 pounds in the program but he actually weighs about 154. He had the Husker trainer tape some weights to his thighs which were hidden by his shorts at the official weigh-in.

The 5-foot-8 junior from Cleveland, Ohio, wanted to avoid the stigma of being the lightest man on the Nebraska squad. The official chart shows Solich at 162. Larry Wachholtz at 163, so he just missed his goal.

"We have been very gratified with Frank's running," said Nebraska coach Bob Devaney, "and the films showed he did a real fine job of blocking. So we're going to keep him in there as our fullback, although I don't know how long he'll last."

Solich is the lad who returned a punt 80 yards for an apparent touchdown in the Orange Bowl game, only to have it nullified. Most Husker fans still are willing to debate the issue of whether he was out of bounds.

Other nominees were Tony Baker of Iowa State, Earl Denny of Missouri, Bob Skahan of Kansas, Jerry Condit of K-State, Estes Banks of Colorado and Larry Elliott of Oklahoma State.

Elliott ran for 51 yards, caught a 65-yard scoring pass and made two critical first down in OUS's successful drive to run out the clock. Banks rushed for 64 yards, scored once on a 36-yard run and completed a 13-yard pass. Condit led K-State rushers with 61 yards and scored twice.

Skahan hit 6 of 7 passes in a closing 75-yard scoring drive for Kansas. He ran for 12 and passed for 57 in the drive, earning a starting berth against Iowa State. Denny led Missouri with 81 yards rushing in 12 trips. Baker's 88 yards in 12 trips led Iowa State and he scored on a 58-yard run, which put the Cyclones back in the game.

Southern Governors To Attend Grid Tilt

Dallas (AP) — Governors from 12 southern states will attend the annual Cotton Bowl game Saturday between Texas and Oklahoma.

The governors will attend the Texas-Oklahoma game before opening the 30th annual Southern Governors' Conference Oct. 11-14 in San Antonio.

New York (AP) — The New York Rovers have signed three defensemen to 1964-65 contracts, the Eastern Hockey League team announced Wednesday. They are Ken Block from Grunthal, Man., Jim Murray from Brandon, Man., and Howard Layton from Toronto.

Hit Makes Pinch Hitter Well Again

St. Louis (AP) — Cardinal pinch-hitter Carl Warwick stepped to the plate Wednesday with a scar on his right cheek and "a throb in my head."

But the right-handed hitting utility outfielder smashed a run-scoring single in the sixth inning of the World Series opener that put the Cards ahead of the New York Yankees 5-4.

"It was a good feeling," Warwick said. "My head was aching and my cheek was hurting, but that hit made everything well again. My eye isn't swollen anymore and I feel pretty good."

Warwick's cheek bone was fractured by Ron Taylor's line drive in batting practice Sept. 27. Wednesday's appearance was the first for Warwick since he was hurt.

"Warwick may have a busted cheek bone," remarked Manager Johnny Keane after the game, "but it sure doesn't affect his hitting."

The Celtics also returned Ray Flynn of Providence to the Philadelphia 76ers.

They now are down to 12 players and must get down to 11 before the season starts Oct. 16.

Opening Cardinal Victory Changes Las Vegas Odds

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals' victory in Wednesday's World Series opener moved Las Vegas bookies to make the team a 10-11 pick to take the Series.

New York Yankee fans are faced with 5-6 odds in the second game, while the Cards are even money.

For example, a Yank fan must bet $6 to win $5.

Reds' Second Place Finish Proves Costly

Cincinnati —The Cincinnatti Reds said that all checks received for World Series tickets were returned by mail Wednesday.

The Reds, who finished in a second place tie in the National League, said they received an estimated $1.4 million worth of orders. A spokesman said failure to win the pennant cost the club $45,000 to $50,000 in expenses.

Thorpe Bay, England (AP) — The British yacht Emma Hamilton went ahead 2-1 over the United States' Sealion in the Little America's Cup-A series of races for catamarans.

Britons Set Tempo In Golf Event

Rome (AP) —Great Britain, led by Ronnie Shade's two-under-par 70, rushed to a four-stroke lead Wednesday in the opening round of the World Amateur golf team championship.

The four-man British team posted an aggregate score of 214, the total of its best three scores, while Italy totaled at 218. The defending champion United States team was in sixth place with 21, five over par at the Olgiata course.

Shade was one of three golfers to score two under the par 72. The others were Angelo Croce of Italy and Kyoshi Ishimoto of Japan. Two of Shade's teammates Rodney Foster and Michael Lunt, each shot a 72 while the fourth member, Michael Bonallack fired an 80.

Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., led the U.S. team with a 73 despite a disastrous 8 at the third hole. Dean Beman of Bethesda, Md., and Ed Tutwiler of Indianapolis each finished with a 74. Dale Morey of High Point, N.C., the fourth member, went out in 34 but rocketed to 41 on the back nine for a 75.

Campbell's fortunes on the third hole were so poor he even broke a club. On his third shot he found the ball near a steel fence. In trying to hit it out, he broke an iron. Then on the second try he moved the ball only two yards. He had taken six shots by the time he reached the green.

Beman started off badly and had to rally for his 74. He three-putted the first hole, took three shots from the edge of the second hole and missed a four-foot putt on No. 4.

Britain's Shade played the first nine in 33 but dropped to 37 coming back.

Play in the championship continues Thursday with Mexico and Nationalist China tied for third at 219 and Argentina in fifth with 220.

Chicago (AP) — Owner-Coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears, criticizing "abominably poor" officiating in the National Football League, recommended Wednesday that Chicagoan Bill Downes, veteran league refree, be named head of the NFL's officiating staff.

Halas said he wrote Commissioner Pete Rozelle, urging that Downes replace Mark Duncan as officiating staff head. Duncan was named to the post as successor to Joe Kuharich, now Philadelphia Eagles coach.

Blow-Out Stalls Record Attempts

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah (AP)—Art Arfons said he was going nearly 500 miles per hour in his jet-powered car when a rear tire blew out Wednesday.

Nearly 500 miles per hour—that's what he said, and the car rolled to a stop 2½ miles down the road, no rollover.

It was the right rear tire that went. A small piece of metal on these western Utah flats was blamed.

And that, of course, delayed his record attempts.

Wally Butts Trial Appeal Set Today

. . . BY CURTIS CO.

Atlanta (AP)—An appeal for a new trial in Wally Butts' libel suit against Curtis Publishing Co. goes before a three-judge Federal Court Thursday.

Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, won a $3.06 million judgment Aug. 20, 1963, from a federal court jury which found he was libeled by an article in the Saturday Evening Post.

The article had charged Butts and Coach Paul Bryant of the University of Alabama rigged a football game in 1962. Both men denied the charges and filed suits for $10 million each.

After the Butts trial, Curtis agreed to pay Bryant $300,000 in a settlement, but the appeal of the Butts verdict has been pushed since the trial.

U.S. District Judge Lewis R. Morgan earlier denied a new trial of the Butts suit, ruling that alleged new evidence "would not have changed the verdict in this case."

Although Morgan upheld the verdict, he ruled that unless Butts agreed to a judgment of $460,000 he would order a new trial.

Butts accepted the reduction but later asked for the full $3.06 million after Curtis appealed Morgan's decision.

Curtis attorneys are contending among other things that they have evidence of discrepancies in the trial testimony of Dr. Frank A. Rose, president of the University of Alabama, and in his sworn statement taken for trial of the Bryan suit.

The Post said in the article that an Atlanta insurance man, George P. Burnett, was by accident cut into a long distance telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant Sept. 13, 1962, and heard Butts giving Georgia team data to Bryant.

Butts and Bryant both testified they had talked on the telephone about rules interpretations but denied any collusion. Alabama won the controversial game 35-0.

Newspaper Says Mel Allen Done As Yank 'Caster

New York (AP) — Mel Allen, "Voice of the Yankees" for 25 years, is on his way out as sportscaster of the New York Yankee games, the New York Journal-American said Wednesday.

The Journal-American, in a story by sports writer Charley Feeney, said Allen has called his last pitch as a regular member of the Yankee radio and television broadcasting team. He will not be back next year, the paper said.

"It could be right," Allen said. "But if it's right, they the Yankees haven't told me about it."

The Yankees declined comment.

The Yankee broadcast for the current World Series is Phil Rizzuto, former Yankee shortstop and a regular member of the Yankee broadcast team.

Milwaukee (AP) — Baseball Commissioner For Frick has urged the owners of the Milwaukee Braves to reconsider their position before deciding to move out of Milwaukee, the Milwaukee Sentinel said.

World Series May Rob NFL Fans Of Seats

St. Louis (AP)—The St. Louis football Cardinals announced Wednesday plans for closed circuit television into the Washington University field house to take care of possible dispossessed seat holders for the Oct. 18 National League game with the Washington Redskins.

Busch Stadium, home of both the baseball and football Cardinals places temporary seats along the sidelines for football, but the conversion takes several days. And the World Series may not be over in time to move the stands for the game.

Italy's Soccer Champs Stop Stubborn Belgians

Rural Electric Authorities To Talk At Meet

Leading authorities in the field of rural electrification will address the Region VII meeting of the Natonal Rural Electric Cooperative Association in Lincoln Oct. 14-16.

The meeting, sixth of 10 regional conclaves being held throughout the nation, is expected to attract about 400 rural electric leaders from Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas and Wyoming.

Region VII embraces 114 member systems which serve more than 297,000 rural electric consumers.

Prominent speakers will include Clyde T. Ellis, general manager of the NRECA, and Norman M. Clapp, administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration.

Ellis is scheduled to speak Thursday at 9:15 a.m. Clapp is scheduled Friday at 9:45 a.m.

The three-day meeting at the Cornhusker Hotel will also feature several panel discussions, and directors of the NRECA national board will report on rural electrification activities in their respective states.

Included is Paul Ogier of Wallace, executive committeeman.

Representatives from 35 Nebraska rural electric systems are scheduled to attend the meeting.

The Farm outlook is important. Complete coverage of the latest of importance in agriculture appears on the "Sunday Journal and Star," farm page.

Another birthday is coming upon me. Happy birthday! Having birthdays is like being a pole vaulter. They keep setting the bar up another notch. You scarcely cleared the last one.

I am a Saturday's child. "Saturday's child works hard for his living." Hmmmmm.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is a retiring world, mates. The other day I went over to survey one of those retirement centers that are springing up all over California.

"Leisure Town." "Shady Acres." "Nothing Flat."

It was a working trip—(the chances of my ever knocking off work are about like my chances of breaking into the Brink's piggy).

No, I went over to see what they offer for "those golden years," as the ad says. Sit in the sun. And the green grass grows all around, all around.

☆ ☆ ☆

Everybody is retiring. And recently I put together a paper on my own experiences on living abroad—cheaply. (I don't live overseas cheaply. It costs me a ruddy fortune. But I am not very good with money.)

Anyway, you can live in attractive parts of the world for about $300 a month. So I wrote the paper.

I got a couple thousand letters! (You don't get that much mail if you attack cats and civil rights simultaneously.)

What surprised me was how young people want to stop working.

One young man was 22. He said:

"I get $50 a month allowance in college. Where can I retire?"

☆ ☆ ☆

The idea of retiring outside the U.S. is interesting. I lived in England and Spain and in Mexico. And while I had to keep on working, I pretended I was not. That I was living grandly on small money.

Small money did not carry me in England.

We had Scottish beef. The prices would make an American butcher laugh—about a third our cost.

But then we liked orange juice. Oranges are imported to Britain from Israel. They are carried by expensive slave girls on flying carpets that must eat up more fuel than a Boeing 707.

We made money on the beef but we lost on the oranges.

Spain is so cheap I couldn't believe it. I could have lived like a grandee for $400. And like a low grade grandee for $300.

One thing, I had a cook and a maid. The cook cost me $25 a month—and the Spanish people moaned. They said I was ruining the labor market by overpayment.

She was so good I moved her with me to England.

Immediately, she raised her price. She also needed clothes and borrowed the money.

Then she got homesick and I had to fly her back to Spain.

Mexico is one of the best countries for retirement. For about $350, a couple can have a house, cook, maid and gardener. Live like hacendados.

On the second day, the cook came down with a rare back ailment.

She said: "Ai, senor! Would you mind getting me a cup of coffee?"

Next day, she asked if I would mind fixing her some eggs rancheros to go with the coffee.

The gardener offered to do the shopping. "Because they will cheat you tourists, senor."

After a week, the maid had to go to a fiesta in her own village. We hired a swing shift maid.

The vines needed pruning. We hired a gardener's assistant.

We were not living so cheaply. But all our assistants were happy as larks.

McNamara Refutes 'Demos Phaseout'

. . . BARRY 90% ASSERTION

Washington (AP) —Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara took issue Wednesday with Sen. Barry Goldwater's latest assertion that this administration is "phasing out 90% of our nuclear delivery capability."

McNamara read to newsmen a statement saying the Republican presidential nominee's charge was "so completely misleading, so politically irresponsible and so damaging to our national security that it cannot be allowed to stand on the record."

The cabinet member, coatless and with shirt sleeves rolled up, called newsmen into his office to read them the statement.

Both Goldwater's statement, made in a speech before a meeting of United Press International editors and publishers, and McNamara's reply were similar to previous exchanges between the two.

McNamara was asked if he also had comment on Goldwater's Tuesday statement that arrangements exist under which presidential control over nuclear weapons is delegated to the commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization force. McNamara said President Johnson had discussed this point in several speeches and that he had nothing to add to what the President had said.

In his statement, McNamara said the national defense program, under both the present and previous administrations, had been conducted on a bipartisan basis and that he did not believe it should become a subject of partisan debate. Then he added:

"But this statement, like the senator's repeated charges that the United States is engaged in 'unilateral disarmament,' threatens the credibility of our nuclear deterrent and that nuclear deterrent is the foundation of our national security."

Numbers Up

Then the defense chief repeated his earlier assertions that the number of nuclear warheads and the megatonnage power of those weapons in the strategic alert and total forces has increased substantially since 1961.

"This force structure," McNamara said, "will include 700 heavy bombers in 1969. These bombers can continue to operate in the 1970s. Before the end of their usable life, we can replace them, if that seems desirable, either with missiles or with new bombers for which the designs are now in development."

McNamara said, "All of this information has been available to Sen. Goldwater," both in the files of the Senate Armed Services Committee, "of which Sen. Goldwater is a member," and in briefings which Johnson had offered Goldwater but which the senator rejected.

Defense Drive Nets Savings Of $2 Billion

Washington (AP)—The Defense Department reported Wednesday that its cost reduction program yielded savings of $2,831,000,000 during the last fiscal year.

This was $278 million more than the preliminary estimate announced by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara last July 7.

The Pentagon made public the text of a cost reduction memorandum submitted to President Johnson on Sept. 28 and referred to by the President at his news conference last Saturday.

The savings were broken down into three general categories: "Buying only what we need"—$1,521,000,000. This was an increase of $74 million from the July estimate; "buying at the lowest sound price"—553 million, up $101 million; "reducing operating costs"—$757 million, an increased saving of $103 million.

McNamara told the President "this additional progress in our efforts to assure military readiness at the lowest possible cost gives me renewed confidence that we will realize savings of $4.6 billion a year in fiscal year 1968 and each year thereafter . . ."

'46 Car Output Tripled

Detroit — United States production of passenger cars last year, 7,300,000, a record, was more than triple that of the first postwar year, 1946.

'BARRY WOULD ARM EXILES TO WIN CUBA'

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller pledged Wednesday that a Goldwater administration would arm Cuban exiles and "let them fight to take back their own homeland."

Miller also contended that there was "little doubt that there is far more Soviet activity in Cuba today than we are aware of."

The Republican vice presidential candidate said Cuban radio broadcasts and newspaper reports indicated the Russians were building repair and drydock facilities in Havana that could be used by submarines and other naval vessels.

American Plain Biggest

Ottawa — From the arctic across Canada, the United States, and Mexico rolls the world's largest plain.

Muncie Citizens Host 'Peggy Day' Campaign

Muncie, Ind. (AP)—Peggy Goldwater left her campaigning husband, Barry, for the first time in 32,000 miles Wednesday and came back home to Indiana to the busy industrial city of Muncie, where she was born.

It was Peggy's day all the way from the minute she stepped off the plane from Washington, D.C., until she went to bed at the home of her long-time friends and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Drum.

As she stepped off the plane, sunny as the day that greeted her, she was met by a brass band; "Welcome Home, Peggy" signs; the mayor of the city, John Hampton, who gave her the key; Mrs. Richard Holt, president of the Delaware County Federation of Republican Women; Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Richard O. Ristine, and hundreds of Muncie citizens.

In the crowd were her son, Barry Jr., who has been campaigning on his own in Indiana; her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ross of California; and Mrs. Ray Prescott Johnson Jr., her sister-in-law from Chicago

Later she was joined by her other son, Michael, who flew in from Omaha for the reunion. Her younger daughter, Mrs. Richard Arlen Holt of Beverly Hills, Calif., was with her on the plane.

The cavalcade of cars took her to the Drum home for a private lunch with the family and friends, and then she drove by the cemetery and the family home on Washington and Elm Streets where she had spent her childhood.

NIXON BLASTS JOHNSON FOR 'DEMOGOGUERY'

Chicago (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon Wednesday accused President Johnson of "political demogoguery" and "irresponsibility" in his dispute with Sen. Barry M. Goldwater over use of NATO nuclear weapons.

Nixon proposed that the President and the Republican presidential candidate confront each other in a public debate, possibly on television, on the issue of whether the NATO commander ever should have authority to unleash nuclear weapons.

Nixon, stumping the Midwest in a hard-driving campaign for Goldwater and other Republican candidates, addresesd a gathering of Cook County precinct captains in Chicago.

A two-day windstorm in 1903 carried about 10 million tons of dust from African deserts over the Mediterranean and into Europe.

HHH: U.S. Mandate To Promote General Welfare

With Humphrey in Ohio (AP) —Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said Wednesday night Democrats have no intention of "dismantling the federal government so that it cannot fulfill its constitutional mandate to promote the general welfare."

Many complex national problems must be met with positive action at the federal level, he said in a speech prepared for a rally at Ashtabula, Ohio.

Yet, he said, the GOP presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater, has stated: "I fear Washington and centralized government more than I fear Moscow."

A positive federal government has been supported by great Republican presidents such as Abraham Lincoln as well as by Democrats, the Minnesota senator said.

"To Sen. Goldwater, however," he went on, "this kind of government is 'the greatest threat to freedom.'

"What is this freedom which Sen. Goldwater sees as threatened?

"This is freedom for the sweat shop proprietor, the slum landlord, the robber baron of a century ago. This is not liberty for the many, it is a license for the privileged few."

Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, said Americans support federal programs now because they "have a deeper understanding of freedom."

Peru Mayor Cites City's Power Need

Mayor John J. McIntire said Wednesday the City of Peru and Peru State College will be in "deep power trouble" unless outside electricity is obtained in a hurry.

He commented at the opening session of what may be a lenghty public hearing by the State Power Review Board on a dispute over which of two power suppliers shall serve the city with supplemental power.

"We have an urgent need for power. If our large motor broke down we could not serve our customers, including Peru State College," he said.

"The people of Peru and their city council have approved the purchase of outside power to meet our needs."

Constant Repair

McIntire, who coaches and teaches at Peru College, said the city's generation equipment is old and in need of constant repair and that because of this residents voted to get out of the generation field.

The City of Auburn and Eastern Nebraska Public Power District have applied to the board for permission to serve the city and the college. Each contends it is the logical supplier and can best meet the needs of the city.

Complicating the case is the fact that Auburn in March, 1963, signed a contract with the State Normal Board to provide electricity to Peru State for five years starting last April.

The city had at first opposed the Auburn-Peru College agreement and even took the matter to court.

The Lancaster County District Court held that the City of Peru had the sole right to serve the college and voided the contract.

However, McIntire explained that all this took place before the city decided against continuing in the power generating business.

According to Lambert Blecha, Auburn utilities manager, the City of Peru, Peru College and the Normal Board agreed last August on an agreement under which Auburn would provide wholesale power to the city for five years for 1.26 cents per kilowatt hour and Peru would sell it to the college for 1.90 cents per kilowatt hour.

BEEF EXPORT PLAN BACKED BY MORRISON

Gov. Frank Morrison Wednesday endorsed a recent proposal by William Colwell, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Third District, which called for establishment of a national beef export council.

The governor said such a council would provide a "bold step forward for the entire economy of the state."

He offered the Hay Springs candidate the full cooperation of the governor's office in regards to the council proposal.

"I long have advocated increasing the foreign markets for all meats, especially high grade beef," Morrison said. "The average person in the world has never tasted a good steak and this is a great potential market."

For 70th Time, Jail

Ottawa (AP)—Daniel O'Connell, 62-year-old hobo, has been convicted of breaking into the Dominican fathers monastery here for the 70th-odd time.

Legislative Unit Seeks $172,000

The Legislative Council, research arm of the state Legislature, has requested a 1965-67 biennium operating budget of $172,744, down considerably from the $363,446 actually appropriated for the current biennium.

However, Council Director Jack Rodgers noted that the proposed budget is based on normal operating expenses and does not reflect any special studies that the Legislature might deem necessary and which would require additional funds.

The 1963 Legislature originally allowed the council $169,317, but later added $198,000 to this for professional services necessary in studies approved by the lawmakers.

Two Cases Of Encephalitis Confirmed

State Health Director Dr. E. A. Rogers said Wednesday his department has reported two confirmed cases of encephalitis so far this year to the U.S. Public Health Service and is investigating 14 "presumptive" cases.

The presumptive cases, he said, involve two deaths and are scattered over eight counties.

A U.S. Public Health Service epidemiologist is conducting the investigations.

Dr. Rogers said the two confirmed cases occurred in Sheridan and Cheyenne counties.

There were the same number of confirmed cases at this time during 1963.

There have been four presumptive cases reported in Adams County so far this year, three in Douglas County, two in Lancaster and one each in Phelps, Scotts Bluff, Hall, Sheridan and Sarpy.

"All the cases reported in Nebraska involve western equine type encephalitis," Dr. Rogers said. "This is a specific virus infection centered in the brain tissue which primarily affects the nervous system and can cause mortality rates as high as 50%."

Court Asked To Nullify '62 Omaha Hiring Law

An Omaha attorney asked the Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday to "void in its entirety" the fair employment practices ordinance adopted in 1962 by the City of Omaha.

Thomas R. Burke made the plea during oral arguments in the case testing the validity of the ordinance, and the power of the city to adopt any fair employment practices act.

A decision will be handed down later.

The Midwest Employers Council, Inc., and the United States Check Book Co., both Nebraska corporations represented by Burke, have appealed a Douglas County District Court decision holding the city had the authority to pass the ordinance. The court, however, ruled invalid the act's penalty section.

"The City of Omaha is without the power to enact any laws that prescribe civil remedies among its citizens," Burke argued. "This is a category of power never contemplated to be delegated to the city of Omaha" by the Legislature.

He also contended that the city is prohibited from pasing fair employment practices legislation because the state has pre-empted the field by passing such legislation as child labor and minimum wage laws.

The District Court had ruled that the state did not preempt the field of labor relations and fair employment practices.

Burke said the ordinance under fire, No. 22026, denies Omaha citizens due process of law in violation of the state constitution. He said it also tampers with the right of free speech.

"It has no ascertainable standard of guilt and this is necessary in an act like this," he said.

"It would be unlawful, under the ordinance, to say you disagree with the act, thus, infringing on the right of free speech."

Burke emphasized that his clients were not questioning the right of the state to enact a fair employment practices act. He said he thought the Legislature had this authority.

Assistant Omaha City Atty. Edward Stein, representing Mayor James Dworak, the City Council, members of the Human Relations Board and the Police Department, said:

"The city has every right to pass fair employment practices ordinances. There is no violation of the state constitution and the city has not gone into a field the state has entered."

Morrison Again Plugs Sorenson

Gov. Morrison said again Wednesday that Nebraska will move forward more rapidly if voters elect Phil Sorensen, Lincoln lawyer, lieutenant governor Nov. 3.

Sorensen, a Democrat, opposes Republican Charles Thone, also a Lincoln lawyer, in the election.

"If we are to achieve our maximum effectiveness," Morrison told a news conference, "we must have a lieutenant governor who will exert leadership and work with the governor."

Cardinal Cushing Urges Catholics Hear Billy Graham

Boston (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing, Catholic archbishop of Boston, Wednesday urged Catholic youths and college students to attend Dr. Billy Graham's crusade in Boston Garden, adding, "I am 100%" for the evangelist.

And near the end of a 45-minute chat at the cardinal's residence—with newsmen present — Dr. Graham said. "I feel much closer to Roman Catholic tradition than to some of the more liberal Protestants."

Dr. Graham, who never had met the cardinal, requested the meeting to express appreciation for the words of support the cardinal gave during two Boston crusades.

The cardinal termed Dr. Graham's message one of Christ crucified, and said, "No Catholic can do anything but become a better Catholic" on hearing Dr. Graham.

'None More Effective'

At one point the cardinal turned to the newsmen and said: "I have never known a religious crusade that was more effective than Dr. Graham's. I have never heard the slightest criticism of anything he has ever said from any Catholic source. I only wish we had a half dozen men of his character to go forth and preach the gospel of Christ crucified."

The prelate said Dr. Graham was "extraordinarily gifted" and added:

"I have listened to him many times through the years over the radio. Dr. Graham is sowing a seed which will blossom forth in the future and result in a new era of identifying God with daily life."

Cardinal Cushing has praised Dr. Graham in articles in the Pilot, Boston archdiocesan weekly.

The Cardinal recently returned from Rome where he attended the Ecumenical Council.

Surge Of Unity

In discussing the surge of unity since the election of Pope John XXIII, Dr. Graham told the cardinal that he (the cardinal) was known around the world for his leadership in this area long before Pope John's elevation.

The cardinal responded: "Now at least we can all work together, in view of John XXVII and this new spirit of unity."

Then he said: "Even Pope Paul VI is of the same mind as Pope John but he doesn't say anything at this time because he does not wish to impose his feelings on the bishops in council."

Latin Affairs Lectures Set At University

Several authorities on Latin American affairs will take part in a new lecture series at the University of Nebraska this year.

The lecture program, "Latin American Social Change in the 20th Century: Progress and Prospects," is being financed by a grant from the Sperry and Hutchinson Foundation Lectureship Program.

Dr. Roberto Esquenzai-Mayo, director of the University's Latin American Studies Program, said, "We are very pleased to secure the lecture series. Through this program, students and the general public will have an opportunity to become better acquainted with Latin America."

University students, high school students and other interested persons may attend the lectures in Love Library auditorium.

Dr. Stanley R. Ross, professor of history and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, State University of New York, Long Island Center, will present the first lecture Nov. 5 at 8 p.m. He will discuss "Mexico: A Successful Social Revolution."

Ghana Chief Urges Use Of OAU Force To Pacify Tshombe's Congo

Cairo (AP)—President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana proposed Wednesday that an African peace force be sent to pacify the Congo, whose premier has been barred from the conference of nonaligned nations here and is under house arrest in a Cairo suburb.

In presenting his porposal to the conference, Nkrumah said all foreign soldiers and mercenaries should be forced to leave the Congo immediately.

The arch foe of Premier Moise Tshombe asked the conference to order foreign powers to keep hands off the Congo and to demand withdrawal of white mercenaries brought in by Tshombe to fight leftist rebels in the eastern and northern Congo.

U.S. Planes

The United States has sent planes and crews to ferry Congo troops to the fighting fronts.

Nkrumah did not mention Tshombe by name. He also failed to mention that Tshombe had asked several African countries to help him put down the Congo rebellion. These requests were refused.

Nkrumah said the force should be sent by the Organization of African Unity and stay there until elections could bring about "a democratic government."

Nasser Hostage

Tshombe, banned by the conference and a hostage of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government, appeared to be enjoying his diplomatic game of chess with Nasser. Tshombe watched the conference proceedings on a television set in the walled palace where he is guarded by Egyptian soldiers.

Nasser's government said Tshombe will not be released until Congolese gendarmes surrounding the United Arab Republic embassy in Leopoldville are called off.

A resolution banning Tshombe's attendance at the conference was pushed through Tuesday by leaders of other African states who accuse Tshombe of being a stooge for Western powers.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India also proposed a special mission—this one to Peking to persuade Communist China to stop developing nuclear weapons.

'Threat To Humanity'

He said, "The threat to humanity from one more country having nuclear weapons at its disposal is a serious matter."

India has the capability of developing nuclear weapons, Shastri said, adding, "Our scientists are under firm orders not to make a single experiment, not to perfect a single device."

A proposal offered earlier by President Sukarno of Indonesia that the nonaligned nations act as a third world bloc was opposed by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia.

Congo Forces Recapture City

Leopoldville, The Congo (UPI) — Congolese army troops and white mercenaries recaptured the strategic pro-Communist rebel stronghold of Uvira Wednesday. They liberated 30 white Europeans, including Italian Bishop Danilo Catarzi.

The Europeans, mostly Italian nuns and priests who served under the 48-year-old Roman Catholic bishop of Uvira, had been detained since the town fell to the Communist-supported insurgents last May.

During the past five months, the whites of Uvira had been subjected to rebel reprisals for Congolese government air raids. They were taken to the Kivu capital of Bukavu and were expected to be flown here.

Uvira, a Lake Tanganyika port, was a major prize for Premier Moise Tshombi's troops, who were reported to have captured the town with only slight resistance.

The recaptured town was a major border crossing point for the rebels, who fled into neighboring Burundi between raids. With the combined advance of government forces from the south, along the shores of Lake Tanganyika, the rebels have little chance of receiving outside support across the eastern Congo border.

Uvira was the first town to fall into rebel hands when the rebellion began last May. Later, rebels advanced southward along the shores of Lake Tanganyika and into North Katanga to Albertville—another town recaptured by the central government in August.

Diplomatic sources here reported the liberation of four American and one Canadian Methodist missionaries from the rebels at the mission of Wembo-Niama, north of Lubefu, in Sakuru province.

(The Methodist Board of Missions in New York identified them as Dr. William S. Hughlett of Cocoa, Fla.; the Rev. D. L. Crowder of Randolph, Neb.; the Rev. Larry G. Pleinmann of Lake Charles, La.; the Rev. Eugene H. Lovell of Old Hickory, Tenn.; and Dr. Nicholas Siksay of Canada. It said one missionary, the Rev. Burleigh A. Law Jr., of Tallahassee, Fla., was killed when the rebels seized the town last August.)

Rosseau School Opens Nov. 1 With 197 Pupils

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The new Maude Rosseau School at 33rd and Calvert will open around Nov. 1 with approximately 197 students, the Board of Education was advised Wednesday.

The 13-classroom building has a student capacity of 420.

Enrollment was ascertained from parental preference on transferring students from existing schools, indicating 136 from Calvert, 10 from the Irving Child Center; 13 from Lincoln Southeast Child Center, 11 from Merle Beattie and 27 from Sheridan.

Under an option plan, parents of 267 students within the new Rosseau district elected to keep their children in their present schools for this school year.

In other action, the board called for a study and recommendation in 90 days regarding the continuation of the French foreign language program at the elementary school level.

Supt. Steven Watkins was instructed to survey other school systems regarding similar programs.

School officials said the elementary program gives youngsters "a running start" on a foreign language, but presents a problem of varied learning levels when they reach junior high.

Several school board members, noting the high drop-out rate in the elementary level (voluntary class) and the junior high class problem, suggested that a solution be found or the elementary program dropped, questioning the benefits of the present system.

Could Top Estimate

School officials advised parking lot fees so far total $4,530 as against estimated operational and maintenance expense of $4,795. It was noted snow removal cost could add $1,700.

The board agreed to clear lots with school equipment after other priority jobs are completed until the situation could be reviewed next year after a year's experience.

The parking fee is $3 per year, but the board indicated an increase might be considered.

The board informally okayed a standardized policy between the three high schools for election of students to the National Honor Society and the Society for Academic Achievement.

Selection will be made after the fifth semester to the honorary societies in time for inclusion of student names in the school annuals.

Study Of Deposits

The board also called for a new study of policy on deposits of school funds in Lincoln banks. Present policy has existed since 1937.

First National Bank and National Bank of Commerce now are designated the main depositories, based on percentage of capital and surplus funds. City National Bank is requesting consideration as a depository.

The board adopted a further rule in line with its policy that district employes and students should not by design or inadvertance comprise a captive audience for furtherance of private business of any sort.

The new rule would prohibit school buildings, grounds or facilities from being used for any sales soliciation, advertising campaign or promotion of any commercial enterprise without prior approval of the Board of Education.

Willard Parents Recommend Improvements For School

Willard School patrons Wednesday thanked the Board of Education for its decision to continue the school, but made recommendations for its improvement.

Attorney Fritz Wagener, representing the Willard School Community Association, said housing growth in the area should present the need for an addition within the next few years.

Earlier, school officials had proposed to transfer the 82 students at Willard, a four-room school with mixed classes, to neighboring Lake View School and close Willard at an estimated operational saving of $7,500.

Voted To Continue

A Willard School vote of parents and property owners was overwhelming for its continuation.

Wagener listed these association recommendations for improvements that the board should consider in its next budget:

—improvement of the fire escape, including screening for its second-story portion.

—re-painting of classrooms and tile or cork covering for the cement hallways and stairs.

To Consider Plans

—modernization of lighting and furniture.

Chairman James Stuart thanked the association for its interest in the school and promised the board would consider the association's recommendations.

Low-Cost Housing Plan Mulled By Committee

A preliminary proposal for a low-cost multiple-dwelling housing project was taken under consideration Wednesday by the Better Lincoln Committee's Housing Council.

Low-interest financing for the project as a low-income housing demonstration could be obtained from the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) with its approval.

Council members expressed interest in moving on such a project, but deferred action until several technical details could be cleared up.

The Home Builders Association of Lincoln and the Lincoln Housing Authority indicated a willingness to proceed in the project if several technicalities could be cleared up.

The project would be similar to the Tulsa, Okla., pilot project studied earlier this year by the home builders, but would sponsor multiple-dwelling units rather than single-family.

Low-income families would be eligible to lease units, eventually acquiring ownership on a cooperative basis.

The proposed project and plans must be submitted by mid-October to the HHFA if allocation of financing is to be approved this fiscal year.

The housing council indicated another meeting would be held on submitting a proposal just as soon as sponsors can compile a detailed plan.

One plan discussed was 10 to 20 multiple units in a two-block area. Another possibility is the same number of units scattered over a somewhat larger area.

However, a two-block area of urban redevelopment under a housing project was suggested as having greater community benefits and serving better as a demonstration for low-cost housing.

The housing group also agreed there was an urgency in the adoption of a "workable program" for housing by the City Council.

Dobson Bros. Construction Co. was apparent low bidder at $68,122.20 on the paving district for Fiene Estates near 33rd and Prescott, city officials said Wednesday.

Only other bidder on the assessement district project was Pioneer Paving Co., $68,-010.60.

In other bidding, Pioneer was low at $20,579.45 for the paving of Adams from 14th to Cornhusker Highway compared to the Dobson bid of $20,916.20.

Other apparent low bidders and projects:

ABC Electric Co., $16,215, on ornamental lighting district for Skyway Terrace near Skyway and Vine, compared with Commonwealth Electric, $17,430, and Mason Electric Co., $16,982.

N. L. Cole, $20,875, on sewer district for Trendwood Third Addition near 84th and A, compared with Bookstrom, $21,-350; Dobson Bros., $35,150; and Chambers, $32,300.

H. R. Bookstrom, $47,940 for water district in Trendwood Third Addition, compared with Dobson Bros., $49,001; Chambers, $42,485, and Cole, $49,365.

PAIR APPEALS, GETS $37,000 FOR PROPERTY

A Lancaster County District Court jury awarded William E. Pulos and his wife, Anne, a sum of $37,000 in their appeal of a condemnation proceeding by the State Department of Roads.

Pulos had appealed the amount awarded him for property on Cornhusker Highway taken for widening of U.S. 6 and 77, and protested the restriction of access to the new highway.

School Board Meets In New Surroundings

The Board of Education met for the first time in it's new walnut-paneled board room in the Public Schools Administration Building.

The remodeled room featured wall-to-wall carpeting, new walnut board table, modernistic swivel chairs and a tiered spectator area.

Chairman James Stuart, commending the new furnishings, said, "It sets a new tone for board meetings."

Information on the cost of the new board room was not immediately available.

Board Member Bob Magee, who had charge of the project, said he didn't know the cost, but pointed out the tables were built in the schools and the remodeling done by district employes.

Similar modernizing treatment was also given the private office of Supt. Steven N. Watkins.

3 Hurt As Truck, Ambulance Hit At 27th And South

Three persons were injured, none apparently severely, in an ambulance-truck collision at 27th and South Wednesday evening.

A Wadlow's ambulance driven by Gail Duerr, 20, of 1225 L, was eastbound on South on an emergency call when it collided with a pick-up truck driven by L. Wayne Brown of Davenport, Neb. police said. The truck was westbound.

The drivers and a passenger in the ambulance, attendant Charles L. Gleeson, 23, also of 1225 L, were injured.

Smirnoff—filtered through a "mountain" of charcoal

What makes Smirnoff so crystal clear, uniquely smooth, remarkably free of taste or odor? Every drop is filtered through 14,000 pounds of activated charcoal. That's why it's dryer in a Martini, smoother on-the-rocks, mixes with anything that pours. And... it leaves you breathless®.

Martin Quits City Power Board Post

The resignation of Bennett S. Martin from the City Power Advisory Board was announced by Mayor Dean Petersen Wednesday.

Mayor Petersen said he was accepting Martin's resignation with regret.

Martin submitted his resignation because of possible conflicts of interest between his duties on the city advisory board and as a director of a merging utility company.

Martin is board chairman of the Western Light and Telephone Co., which is merging with the Western Power and Gas Co., which retails natural gas in Lincoln.

Martin, who will become a vice president of the merged company, noted that electricity and gas "are more or less competitive business, especially regarding house heating."

In his letter of resignation, Martin said he regrets leaving the city advisory board because "I am thoroughly convinced that the acquisition of Consumers Public Power District properties in Lincoln and surrounding area will mean a great deal to the City."

He said purchase of Consumers' properties by the city and consolidation with the city's electrical distribution system can easily mean an annual savings of one million dollars a year to the people of Lincoln through lower rates and better service.

Martin, a former mayor of Lincoln, was appointed to the power board last year by Mayor Petersen.

CRASH CLAIMS NU GRAD

Miss Nancy Miller, 22, a 1962 graduate of the University of Nebraska, was killed in a California auto accident Tuesday night

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller of Tekamah, Nancy had been teaching English in the Santa Anna, Calif., School System since graduation. Nancy was a four year Regent's scholar, member of Phi Beta Kappa and president of Mortar Board at the University.

According to reports, Nancy was alone in her car at the time of the accident. Two other persons were also reportedly killed in the accident.

Nancy graduated from Nebraska with "high distinction" awards receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree in Education with an English major.

Survivors include her parents, and sister, Janet, also a University graduate. Janet was teaching in California and living with Nancy at Balboa Island.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

576 Schools Participated In Meal Plan

A total of 576 Nebraska public schools participated in the National School Lunch Program during the 1963-64 school year, and served a total of 18,290,956 meals to 111,578 children.

Allen A. Elliott, director of School Food Services for the State Education Department, disclosed the figures in connection with proclamations issued by President Johnson and Gov. Frank Morrison naming October 11-17 as the Third Annual National School Lunch Week.

Purpose of the proclamations is to emphasize the importance of the school lunch program to children of the nation, as well as to their homes and communities, to the farmers, to industry, and the nation in general.

Elliott said cost of operating the program in the Nebraska schools was $7,368,737, exclusive of some $1.75 million worth of federally donated commodities, and $230,000 in donations from other sources.

The State of Nebraska spent an additional $38,791 for administration of the school lunch and commodity distribution programs in the schools.

Of the $7.3 million in cash expenditures made locally by the schools, $742,066—10.1% —was federal reimbursement, and $5,016,430 — 68.1% —was children's payments.

The local school districts contributed $99,729 — or 1.1% —and the remaining 20.7% was received from the sale of lunches to school employes and other miscellaneous sources.

Nebraska farmers, grocers, processors and distributors benefitted from the sale of $4,106,077 worth of food. The cost of labor amounted to $2,439,695.

Izvestia Publishes Attaches' 'Espionage' Photos

Moscow (UPI)—The Soviet government newspaper Wednesday published what it said were "espionage" photographs and notes seized by security agents from American and British military attaches in a Siberian hotel raid.

The newspaper Izvestia rejected U.S. and British protests and said the three Americans and one Briton were caught "redhanded."

"We shall not tolerate spies, no matter what their rank or title," the newspaper said.

Izvestia repeated the Soviet charges shortly after the United States and Britain had rejected as "unsatisfactory" a note accusing the four officers of spying. Both governments charged that the Soviets had violated the attaches' diplomatic immunity. The officers are attached to embassies in Moscow.

The newspaper said the attaches tried to masquerade as athletes bound for the Tokyo Olympic games during their alleged spy trip across Siberia from Moscow to Vladivostok by train last week. But, it said, only the tall blond British attache—Lt. Cmdr. Nigel Laville—could pass for an athlete.

The Americans were: Col. George Aubrey, 47, of Annapolis, Md., the attache, and two assistant Army attaches: Lt. Col. Karl R. Liewer, 40, of Osmond, Neb., and Maj. James F. Smith, 41, of Meers, Okla.

Izvestia said KOB (state security) agents seized more than 900 photographs and two dozen notebooks in the raid on the officers' hotel rooms in the Siberian city of Khabarovsk. It published a photograph of a foot-long telephoto lens, cameras, rolls of film and notebooks allegedly confiscated by the Soviet security men.

Bankers To Meet

Norfolk—Ray Monsalvatge, convention speaker, will address the Group 3 Nebraska Bankers Association annual meeting here Monday. John E. Glandt of Neligh serves as president of the group.

Beermann Wishes NDEA Had Changes

Rep. Ralph Beermann said Wednesday he voted for the recently passed Senate-House conference report updating and modernizing the National Defense Education Act, but that he would have been happier with the report if it had some revisions.

"For instance," the Republican congressman pointed out, "I would liked to have seen the act's help confined to science, mathematics and foreign languages as originally provided, and possibly English, rather than including history, civics and geography.

"If we accept the theory that the latter three studies are related to national defense, then there is no limit to how far this program can be extended.

"It could become a general federal aid to education program, which Nebraska First District voters have indicated they don't want."

Stock Market's Trade Heavier; Prices Mixed

New York (AP)—Stock market trading grew heavier Wednesday but the price pattern continued mixed. Selected issues were strong.

Ford had its turn as the favored stock in the automotive group as it advanced 1½ to 61, a record high adjusted for the 2-for-1 stock split of a couple of years ago.

Ford's breakthrough drew increased attention by traders and the issue ranked as second most active on 185,000 shares. Texas Gulf Sulphur topped the list with 198,500 as it rose ⅞ to 64¼.

Steels retreated in a group, however, as the General Motors strike dragged on.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a loss of 1.36 at 873.78.

Continued heavy speculative activity was shown in a variety of issues as volume swelled to 5.15 million shares from 4.82 Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .2 to 327.3 with industrials up .1, rails up .3 and utilities up .3 to a new high for the year.

Of 1,345 issued traded, 521 rose and 517 fell. New highs for the year totaled 79 and new lows 17.

On the list of 15 most active stocks, gainers outnumbered losers by 11 to 3, with Chrysler unchanged.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed. Volume was 1.79 million shares compared with 1.49 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds rose.

Prices Advance In Grain Market

Chicago (AP)—Unfavorable crop reports on soybeans and corn and an improved outlook for export of wheat firmed the grain futures market Wednesday.

GM Strike Nearer Solution

Detroit (AP) — A 13-day-old strike against General Motors moved closer to settlement Wednesday, but negotiators still had a long way to go before wrapping up all local plant demands.

Agreement on local demands supplementing a tentative national contract with the United Auto Workers union was reported at two of the company's largest operations in Michigan.

The newest agreements cover some 15,000 workers in the Pontiac motor division plant at Pontiac, and another 10,000 at the Oldsmobile factory in Lansing.

At the same time, a second potential strike against GM apparently was averted with agreement on a new labor contract covering 25,000 employes represented by the International Union of Electrical workers (IUE) in four states.

The pattern accepted by the IUE followed the one carved out by the UAW in both economic and noneconomic terms, it was disclosed in a joint announcement from the two sides.

The national agreements call for higher pensions, longer vacations, additional holidays, increased pay and other fringe benifits. They are similar among all of the automotive big three — GM, Ford and Chrysler.

Hilda Costliest To Off-Shore Oil

New Orleans (AP)—Hurricane Hilda's rampage through Louisiana's billion-dollar offshore oil fields was the most costly in the industry's history, a check showed Wednesday.

Estimate of the known loss stood at $25 million after a preliminary inspection.

Oilmen said the figure could spiral upward as they reach more of the expensive rigs which dot the Gulf of Mexico to the south and east of the mouth of the Mississippi River, in the shallow seas of the continental shelf.

The heavy off-shore losses, just becoming apparent, raised Louisiana damage estimates from Hilda to at least $95 million.

Insurance underwriters fixed the property loss, excluding oil equipment, at $25 million. Damage to the sugar cane crop ran another $44 million, the American Sugar Cane League said.

Death toll from the hurricane, which struck this Deep South stage with blinding fury over the weekend, stood at 36. All the deaths occurred on land, the offshore equipment having been virtually abandoned ahead of the storm.

Fisher Ex-Wives, Husbands On Same Liner To Europe

New York (AP)—Debbie Reynolds and Elizabeth Taylor sailed for Europe Wednesday, both aboard the Queen Elizabeth.

The actresses are both ex-wives of singer Eddie Fisher.

Miss Taylor sailed with her present husband, actor Richard Burton. Miss Reynolds was with her husband, Harry Karl, who is in the shoe business

Miss Reynolds said she did not know Burton and Miss Taylor were booked aboard the same ship, "But I'd be very happy to see them and say hello."

A crowd of about 500 gathered at the pier to see the celebrities off. Burton and Miss Taylor were mobbed as they approached the gangplank, but they escaped unhurt.

Miss Reynolds said she would spend about two weeks traveling through England, France, Spain and Portugal.

JOHN WAYNE HEADS HOME

Actor John Wayne, known around Hollywood as "Big Duke," accompanied by his wife, Pilar, walks from an elevator on his way home from Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles. Wayne was hospitalized for two weeks and underwent two operations—one for an old ankle injury, the other for removal of an abscess of the lung.

Explosion Rocks Economy Meeting Of Cuban Exiles

Miami, Fla. (AP) — An explosion rocked a downtown hotel room Wednesday night where a group of Cuban exiles were meeting, the fire department said.

At least one exile was sent to the hospital and several others were shaken up.

How much damage was done was not immediately known.

Police called for a second ambulance, and the bomb squad.

The group was the Association for Economic Reconstruction of Cuba, an organization of formerly successful Cuban industrialists. They meet every Wednesday in the hotel, The Everglades, and are studying ways of reconstructing the economy of Cuba once Fidel Castro is overthrown.

Separatist Rally To Decide Stand On Queen's Visit

Quebec (AP) — About 20,000 pamphlets inviting Quebec City residents to a rally protesting the queen's visit were distributed door-to-door by Le Rassemblement Pour L'Independence Nationale Tuesday night.

The distribution had the permission of Police Chief Roger Lemire.

Quebec's leading separatist group called the rally for Friday evening, about 12 hours before the queen is scheduled to arrive at Wolfe's Cove aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

It said the meeting is being called to spell out the position to be taken by the group toward the queen's visit to Quebec.

License Revoked Of Retiree, 96 —Just Two Years

Stowmarket, England (AP)—If John G. Wells lives to be 98 he will be able to drive his car again.

He might make it—he's 96 now and his solicitor told a judge Wednesday Wells "is in very good condition for a man his age."

Aide 'Disappointed' With Barry Resigns

Washington (AP) — William R. Seward, legislative assistant to Sen. Barry Goldwater since 1958, has resigned, saying he was "disappointed and concerned" with some recent positions of Goldwater, the Washington Post reported Wednesday night.

The Post quoted Seward, whom it said was one of the three ranking members of Goldwater's 15-member Senate staff, as saying he felt the GOP presidential nominee has in effect been captured by a "small, well-knit group of new advisers" who were putting words into his mouth.

According to the Post, Seward cited Goldwater's statements on Social Security, extremism and the Cuban missile crisis as examples of how his new advisers "are pushing him farther to the right."

'Not Really Barry'

"I don't think these statements were really Sen. Goldwater talking. I think his advisers were speaking more for themselves than for the senator," Seward said, according to the Post.

The story also quoted Seward as saying Goldwater is "a wonderful man" whose policies are "basically middle of the road."

Seward, 35, a native Arizonan made it clear he was resigning "out of conviction and deep personal thoughts" from the $11,200-a-year Post, the newspaper said.

'New Faces'

The Post said Seward declined to name the Goldwater advisers to whom he objected, referring to them as "the new faces that the senator has allowed to become his top advisers."

According to the story, Seward said the new advisers brought a new atmosphere to the Goldwater organization which became apparent during the GOP National Convention in July at San Francisco. Seward described the change to the Post in this way:

Before the convention, the senator "was quite accessible. You could work closely with him and you could disagree with him, and he would respect your views."

'Sealed Off'

But at the convention and afterwards, "the new advisers seemed to seal the senator off. There was no room at all for compromise or disagreement.

"Toward the end of the convention, several people, including myself, had the feeling that if you weren't with the new group, you were being watched pretty closely.

"I've no proof, but you had the feeling that if you disagreed on anything you were considered disloyal, not gungho enough, not solid conservative enough and not quite fit to be in the Goldwater organization."

Rich Man's Son, Figure In Race Case, Held In Robbery

Jackson, Miss. (AP) — A wealthy McComb, Miss., businessman's son, free on bond after being arrested in a racial bombing case, was rearrested Wednesday on a bank robbery charge.

Roy Moore, FBI agent in charge here, said Sterling Lewis Gillis, 35, was picked up on the federal charge after $1,800 was found in his possession when he was arrested on the racial charge Monday.

Gillis was taken to Hattiesburg, where a U.S. commissioner set bond at $10,000. However, there seemed little chance he would be released.

In Hattiesburg, Sheriff Bud Gray said he had received a state warrant charging Gillis with armed robbery, a capital offense which may preclude release on bond.

The FBI said Gillis robbed the Lawrence County Bank at Monticello March 2, making off with $40,000.

Gillis was first arrested last Monday by FBI agents and highway patrolmen on charges of unlawful use of explosives, which also could carry a maximum penalty of death.

Defense Calls 7,800 Draftees In December

Washington (AP) — The Defense Department called for 7,800 men to be drafted for Army service in December.

The December draft quota is 800 smaller than the 8,600 men to be inducted in November.

GOOSE-STEPPING PARADE

East German troops, booted and goose-stepping like World War II Hitler forces, pass the reviewing stand during a mammoth parade marking the 15th anniversary of founding of the German Democratic Republic by Communists. Watching at top center are Walter Ulbricht, East German Communist Party boss, and his wife, Lotte, with Leonid Brezhnev, former Soviet president, now Soviet Communist Party secretary. The scene was the Soviet sector of divided Berlin.

Berlin Orders Probe Of East Guard Killing

Berlin (UPI) — The West Berlin city government Wednesday ordered the district attorney to investigate the killing of an Eastern border guard during a tunnel escape.

The investigation will determine whether youths accused by the communists will be tried in West Berlin.

There was great sympathy expressed here for the youths who brought 57 refugees through a tunnel under the wall last weekend.

Justice

But officials said the fact that a life had been lost could not be ignored and justice must take its course. The fact that the border guard died in East Berlin does not prevent any trial from taking place in West Berlin under German law.

It was admitted in West Berlin Tuesday night that two youths helping refugees had opened fire in East Berlin at the tunnel entrance early Monday.

But it was said they fired in self-defense when Eastern police posing as refugees were about to open fire and this situation would be taken into account if they are tried.

No Extradition

City officials said the youths will not be extradited so the communists can try them.

The decision to refuse an East German extradition request was made in the face of a threat to call off the Berlin Wall agreement.

The communists Wednesday repeated their warning that the tunnel shooting endangers the visits of West Berliners to their East Berlin relations . . .

Delta Sigma Psi Denied Waiver Of City Zoning Code

Delta Sigma Psi fraternity lost its bid in Lancaster District Court for a ruling allowing it to build a four-story fraternity house at 1645 R in variance with the city's zoning code.

The fraternity was denied a waiver of set-back requirements by the city's board of zoning appeals, and the zoning board's action was later upheld by the City Council.

The District Court order ruled in favor of the city.

'Must Raise Income'

New Delhi, (AP) — A member of India's planning commission, Dr. V.K.R.V. Rao, said in a recent speech that it was "politically necessary, socially imperative" to raise the nation's monthly per capita income to at least 20 rupees ($4.20). Exact figures on current income are unavailable.

Thone Favors Shorter Sessions Of Legislature

Gothenburg (AP)—Charles Thone, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, thinks Nebraska unicameral sessions should be shorter and he thinks this can be accomplished.

In a campaign appearance at Gothenburg, Thone—who would become presiding officer of the Unicameral if he were elected—said he favors adoption of many of the recommendations made by a legislative study committee for increasing efficiency in the Legislature.

Thone said he would support a recommendation which would require a three-fourths vote to suspend Senate rules, in place of the present two-thirds, which is much easier to obtain. Thone said when rules are suspended members sometimes wander from the business at hand and waste time.

He said he also would support a proposal to limit the practice of "personal privilege." If this recommendation were put into effect the presiding officer could limit interruptions of the legislative proceedings from this quarter.

Thone said poor results in the closing days of the 1963 session stemmed from the desire of legislators to get back to their homes after unduly extended and fruitless bouts on the Senate floor.

All sessions are open to the public.

Red Poll Cattle Club Structure Ruled Tax-Exempt

District Judge William F. Colwell, presiding in Lancaster District Court, ruled that the Red Poll Cattle Club of America does not have to pay real estate taxes on its office building at 3275 Holdrege.

The organization was appealing the ruling of the Lancaster County Board of Equalization placing the office building on the county tax rolls.

Judge Colwell ruled the organization was an "agricultural society" and its property was used "primarily and exclusively for agricultural purposes," thereby allowing it exemption from taxation under state law.
